Don't Expect Scenes Like This For Awhile

Spring Arrives Officially

In fact, Ed Copeland, U.S. weather observer at Millport, hints that more cold weather is to be endured, and even suggested a possible Easter snowstorm.

The forecast for tonight and Wednesday is considerable cloudiness with little change in temperature.

Copeland said the overnight low temperature was a chilling 33 degrees, and two-thirds of an inch of rain has fallen since yesterday morning.

Precipitation so far this month amounts to 2.78 inch, just over normal. Snowfall totals 13 inches, far above the customary 4.5 inches for March.

Supreme Court Approves Use Of Police 'Tipster'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is showing a renewed tendency to intervene in criminal law cases, but where this year's decisions will take the justices — and the law — is still very much in doubt.

Monday the pendulum swung a bit toward the side of policemen, who have complained bitterly in the last few years that the court was handcuffing them.

Police officers "need not invariably be required to disclose an informant's identity" so long as the trial judge is convinced the tipster is reliable, the court decided.

"Old reliable, the informer," was the derisive description pinned by dissenting Justice William O. Douglas on the tipster who has been a useful tool to police for centuries.

But Douglas was in the minority. By a 5-4 decision, written for the court by Justice Potter Stewart, police were given a freer hand to make arrests without obtaining search warrants.

Certainly police were cheered and it was a gloomy day for civil libertarians. However, the cheering and fingernail biting may be premature.

Just last week, the court agreed to review the power of police to stop people on the street they think look suspicious, and frisk them for weapons or other evidence of crime.

This means at least four of the nine justices thought a constitutional evaluation was in order. If five decide "stop and frisk" can't be squared with the Constitution, the pendulum will swing back.

Awaiting decision are several other significant cases in the field of criminal law, at least three ranking in importance with Monday's informer case. These concern putting suspects in lineups without the assistance of counsel, court-authorized electronic eavesdropping, and juvenile court procedures.

In the criminal cases already decided this term the pendulum has swung in both directions.

On Feb. 13, the court served stern notice on prosecutors that knowing use of false evidence" could not stand.

A week later, it shored up federal constitutional rights of defendants in state criminal trials. When these rights are violated, a 7-1 decision said, the burden will be on the states to prove "beyond a reasonable doubt" that the infringement "did not contribute to the verdict."

Then, on March 13, all nine justices agreed that a defendant in a state criminal case is entitled to a speedy trial — a right that defendants in federal prosecutions always have had.

However, on Feb. 20 the court upheld the right of California authorities to search an automobile for narcotics without getting a search warrant.

In January the court ruled that state prosecutors may tell juries about a defendant's prior offenses before the juries pass on guilt or innocence. The practice applies in states where habitual offenders draw stiffer sentences.

On other occasions the court has simply sidestepped criminal law issues. Where the justices are heading may not be fully known until June.

Police, Firemen Request Action On Wage Increase

The police and fire departments, acting through a Trades and Labor Council spokesman, asked Council Monday night to take early action on requests for pay increases and fringe benefits that have been pending since November.

Gerald Cartwright, speaking for the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 29 and the International Association of Fire-Fighters Local 24, told Council the situation is "critical" and recalled the demonstrations staged in front of City Hall in 1965 before general boosts averaging 10 per cent were granted.

"The men feel they have just demands," Cartwright said. "I feel there is an area of compromise between what they have asked and what you have offered."

Cartwright remarked that Council has offered members of the two departments 4 per cent hikes.

Cartwright asserted that the cost of living nationally went up 1.3 per cent a year between 1960 and 1965, but from September 1965 until the fall of 1966 the increase was 3½ per cent. The minimum increase in the cost of living in the last two years has been 4.8 per cent, he added.

Council "made its first economic proposal" to the two departments last week, Cartwright said. He asserted that such action "is not collective bargaining," since the first request for hikes was filed in November.

A 4 per cent hike would leave firemen and police "eight-tenths of 1 per cent behind the actual cost of living," he said. He said he believes the two departments should be given a boost to compensate for the increase in the cost of living, plus an increase on top of that amount.

Some of the Council members have indicated they would like to see a definite term to wage agreements wity city em-

Remnants Of Enemy's Force Flee

30 Yanks Killed, 109 Wounded, 3 Missing In Fight

SAIGON (AP) — A regiment of 2,500 Communists hurled human wave assaults at American positions near Cambodia today, but American infantrymen, artillery and aircraft sent the Reds reeling back with 423 bodies strewn over the jungle battlefield.

Under a blistering mortar barrage, the Reds smashed into U.S. positions at dawn, sometimes getting within hand-to-hand range.

For hours, a confusing series of fights swirled back and forth. By midafternoon the Red regiment was a decimated ruin, with one fifth of its men known dead and uncounted more dead and wounded being dragged over jungle trails.

U.S. headquarters said the remnants of the crack 272nd Viet Cong Regiment was fleeing toward Cambodia with a hail of air and artillery smashing down on their escape routes.

American losses in the bitter fight, which broke out Tuesday morning, were announced as 30 dead, 109 wounded and three missing.

The U.S. Command said latest reports from the battlefield had the men of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade in hot pursuit of the Viet Cong regiment, which was putting up a scattered rearguard defense.

The 272nd Viet Cong Regiment is heavily laced with regular North Vietnamese soldiers.

It was the stiffest battle by far in the 200-square-mile area where U.S. soldiers are pressing home the biggest ground sweep of the war. The troops have stabbed deep into War Zone C in search of the top political and military headquarters from which the Communists have been directing the war in South Vietnam.

The battle took place northeast of Tay Ninh City in an area where the Cambodian frontier cuts eastward, offering the Reds an escape route only about 10 miles from the battle zone.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the toll of more than 400 Communist dead was only an "interim report," indicating it will almost certainly go higher. In addition to the dead, six Communists were captured and 150 weapons were seized.

The battle sent the Communist death toll in Operation Junction City to more than 1,500 since it began Feb. 22.

Many if not most of the Red casualties today came from air, artillery and gunship helicopter strikes that began soon after the Reds smashed into a relatively isolated U.S. artillery camp today. Early reports indicated the initial assault may have carried into the gun positions.

About the same time, a battalion force of about 750 U.S. infantrymen ran into the Viet Cong regiment and the big fight was on. It appeared destined to rank in intensity with such longer battles as those of the Marines in Operation Hastings

Conference 'Instructive And Constructive'

LBJ Says Guam Parley Produced No Decisions Of Military Nature

GUAM (AP) — President Johnson said today his two days of Vietnam talks on the cloud-shrouded Pacific Island of Guam were instructive and constructive but produced no momentous decisions.

Holding a surprise news conference before he took off for Honolulu and Washington, Johnson said: "We took no decisions of a military nature."

South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu flew back to Saigon, and as soon as they arrived Thieu announced that before the Guam conference his government had asked North Vietnam to join it in a peace meeting. But he said no answer had been received from Hanoi.

"If Hanoi is ready to discuss peace with us, we are ready to meet with them," Thieu told a news conference at the Saigon airport.

White House Press Secretary George Christian said he had no comment to make on Thieu's disclosure.

Johnson spoke to newsmen in a hilltop Navy officers club where, just seven hours earlier, Premier Ky had made an emotional appeal for united American support that concluded:

"There is no reason that you or other people should impose on us to surrender or accept domination from the Communists. We are willing to fight."

Johnson obviously was disturbed by the attention given to some of Ky's earlier statements which in effect called for sharp escalation in the war and rejected a place at any peace talks for the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

The President said he was amazed that the newsmen gave so much attention to Ky's statement Monday that "even to permit the front to pose as representatives of any segment of the South Vietnamese people would betray the sacrifices made by thousands of Vietnamese, Americans and our other allies."

The President said he has always felt that the NLF would have no difficulty making its views heard at any negotiations. And he said nothing that happened in Guam caused him to change his mind.

Ky himself toned down his remarks at a news conference before his departure, saying he is ready to talk peace with Hanoi and "if they have the intention to have members of this so-called front of liberation with them, we have no objection."

Conceding that his statement at the opening session of the conference had kicked up some dust, Ky remarked with a grin: "The next time I have to find a better English writer — too much confusion."

In a remark that was widely interpreted as a reference to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., Ky told his news conference:

"I am against those whose course is of their own interests — their own political future or near future — who speak only for themselves and try to blame us in this country."

He said his government is not composed of profiteering militarists who want to keep the war going for their own ends. Instead, he said, they are fighters for freedom.

Johnson also made a statement that could easily be applied to Kennedy, who said early last month that the succeeding few weeks might be crucial to peace prospects.

Asked about "peace flurries" at the United Nations, the president said: "I am not really aware of these flurries, except some people do have flurries from time to time."

He added that he believes individuals "do a disservice to the people if they predict something

'Absolutely' No Prospects Now, Lodge Declares

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge returned tonight from the Guam conference with President Johnson and said he saw "absolutely" no immediate prospect for peace negotiations to settle the Vietnam war.

"All that talk is premature," Lodge told newsmen, "and it will also be that for a long time."

Asked about a new peace proposal which Nguyen Van Thieu, South Vietnamese chief of state, said had been made to Hanoi, Lodge said Thieu's announcement was not a new one and that a news story about it had been published in the Philippines several days ago.

To a newsman's query if he saw immediate prospect of peace, Lodge replied: "Absolutely not."

Returning with Lodge from the Guam meeting were Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and Robert Komer, special presidential assistant who has been assigned to work on the pacification program here.

Lodge described the Guam conference as "very useful" and said it was "not the type of meeting that has a lot of big, bold, new proposals."

He said the outstanding event of the meeting came when Premier Nguyen Cao Ky presented President Johnson with a copy of South Vietnam's new constitution. Lodge said the presenta-

Hancock Boosts Schools' Budget

The Hancock County Board of Education set a tentative budget of $5,013,858 for the 1967-68 school term, representing a rise of $112,000 over the current year, during its meeting Monday night at the offices in New Cumberland.

Final action on the proposed budget was delayed until next Monday.

The capital outlay was cut from $445,000 to $150,000 and advances were made in all other categories.

THE BIGGEST increase was reflected in teachers' salaries.

Robert H. Hall, school superintendent, said provisions have been made for adding eight elementary and six secondary teachers. The cost of teachers represents 70 per cent of the budget, higher than the average ratio, he pointed out.

The board accepted the salary schedule for the new term, with the provision that it could be adjusted later if additional funds are made available.

Estimated receipts for the upcoming budget were listed as follows:

Property taxes, $2,686,264; tax sale, $5,000; county adult education, $8,000; miscellaneous local sources, $10,000; state aid, regular, $1,954,661; state aid, increased enrollment, $20,000; state aid, exceptional children, $10,000; state aid, superintendent's salary, $1,600; state aid, free textbooks, $3,000.

LISBON — Francis Bezdek of Lisbon R. D. 5 resigned from the Columbiana County Board of Health Monday night minutes after being seated by a 2-1 vote.

Seating of Bezdek, elected March 6 by the county Health Advisory Council, came despite three formal challenges by chairmen of boards of township trustees and a legal opinion the action would be improper, since both Bezdek and board member Glen Hawkins of New Waterford R. D. 1 reside in Elkrun Township.

Hawkins and member Frank Murray of Lisbon R. D. 4 voted to seat Bezdek, while Dr. Paul Beaver, Leetonia physician and board vice president, was opposed.

Creek Yields Body Of Man At Toronto

The victim, identified as Gerald Zimmer, was described as 6 feet tall and in his mid-40's. He was discovered today at 6:55 by a workman returning from his shift at the Titanium Metals Co.

Zimmer was a pensioner, who reportedly lived alone.

Police said that while the creek is only two feet deep, it has an extremely fast current.

Examination of the body revealed a bump on the head, indicating Zimmer may have struck a rock after plunging or falling into the water some time before dawn. Fragments of debris in the dead man's hands led investigators to believe he was alive and struggling when he entered the water.

The Jefferson County coroner has not yet ruled on the fatality.

Bezdek Quits Board Post In Legal Dispute

Resigns Minutes After Being Named In 2-To-1 Action

LISBON — Francis Bezdek of Lisbon R. D. 5 resigned from the Columbiana County Board of Health Monday night minutes after being seated by a 2-1 vote.

Seating of Bezdek, elected March 6 by the county Health Advisory Council, came despite three formal challenges by chairmen of boards of township trustees and a legal opinion the action would be improper, since both Bezdek and board member Glen Hawkins of New Waterford R. D. 1 reside in Elkrun Township.

Hawkins and member Frank Murray of Lisbon R. D. 4 voted to seat Bezdek, while Dr. Paul Beaver, Lectonia physician and board vice president, was opposed.

"I don't think I want to be on this board any longer," Dr. Beaver said when Mrs. Edna Glausser, clerk, announced the

Creek Yields Body Of Man At Toronto

The victim, identified as Gerald Zimmer, was described as 6 feet tall and in his mid-40's. He was discovered today at 6:55 by a workman returning from his shift at the Titanium Metals Co.

Zimmer was a pensioner, who reportedly lived alone.

Police said that while the creek is only two feet deep, it has an extremely fast current.

Examination of the body revealed a bump on the head, indicating Zimmer may have struck a rock after plunging or falling into the water some time before dawn. Fragments of debris in the dead man's hands led investigators to believe he was alive and struggling when he entered the water.

The Jefferson County coroner has not yet ruled on the fatality.

On Legislative Apportionment

Congress Not Expected To Call For Convention

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite recent drum-beating in legislatures, Congress is not expected to call a constitutional convention to deal with legislative apportionment.

The Constitution says Congress shall call a convention "on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states."

Thirty-two states have expressed themselves at one time or another and in one fashion or another for a convention to tackle the "one man-one vote" controversy.

But there is disagreement about whether Congress would be obligated to act even if two more states ask for a convention.

For one thing, this is the 90th Congress. All but four of 32 legislatures asking a convention made their requests before this Congress convened.

It can be argued that some requests are from a legislative session no longer in existence to a Congress no longer in existence.

Those wanting a constitutional convention mostly have in mind one confined to seeking revision of the Supreme Court's "one man-one vote" decision that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said in his opinion such a convention could not be so limited.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who has been pressing for a constitutional amendment to limit the one man-one vote ruling, wouldn't predict what might happen.

The Dirksen proposal was put to a vote in the Senate Aug. 4, 1965, and failed by seven votes to obtain the necessary two-thirds approval.

One organization opposing a convention, the League of Women Voters, is trying to get some of the legislatures which asked for a convention to withdraw their action. Several have been reapportioned on the basis of the Supreme Court's decision since they acted.

Larry Conrad, counsel to the Senate Constitutional Amendments subcommittee, noted there are no precedents since there has never been a constitutional convention since the first one in 1787.

But he said he was inclined to the view that a convention could not be confined to a single subject.

He said there would be a number of subsidiary questions for Congress if the convention question ever arose.

"How do you choose the delegates?" he asked. "Who would preside?

Any constitutional amendment approved by a convention would be subject to ratification by three-fourths of the states, just as are those submitted by Congress.

Board Probe In Apollo Fire Due Conclusion In Few Days

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A board of review expects to conclude its probe of the Apollo 1 fire within a few days without pinpointing the exact cause of the fire that killed three astronauts.

For several weeks the board, aided by 1,500 experts, has conducted a methodical search for clues to the cause of the spacecraft blaze during a launch pad test Jan. 27.

It believes the fire was started by an electrical malfunction under the couch of Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom, the command pilot. Specialists have narrowed the possible sources to five or six, mostly short circuits, but are unable to determine whether these caused the fire or resulted from it.

Killed with Grissom were Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

Another question is the affect of Grissom's failure to depressurize the cabin when the fire was discovered. One of his first duties in such an emergency was to operate a lever to start reducing the 16.2-pounds-per-square-inch pressure in the pure-oxygen environment.

Either the fire already had covered the depressurization handle or Grissom forgot it in his haste to attempt to remove the spacecraft hatch.

Had Grissom started the depressurization process, it might have slowed the spread of flames. But experts are uncertain whether it would have been enough. Ninety seconds would have been required to open the hatch, and the astronauts were dead within 18 seconds after the fire was first reported by Chaffee. They died from breathing carbon monoxide fumes.

The board is headed by Dr. Floyd L. Thompson, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Langley Research Center. Thompson plans to submit the board's findings to NASA Administrator James E. Webb by April 1.

ployes, Cartwright said. He indicated the firemen and police might consent to a two - year agreement. Cartwright was introduced by Patrolman David Mumaw, president of the FOP.

Police and firemen said their latest revised proposals call for a 10 per cent hike for the first six months of 1967, with 5 per cent more on July 1 and another 5 per cent on Jan. 1, 1968.

The police department said the increases sought for 1967 would cost the city $17,885. The fire department said the increases it seeks would cost the city $21,182 for 1967.

Councilman Frank Duffy heads the Council committee designated to negotiate with the employes. The other members are Councilmen James Lowe and Norman Bucher.

Raises also have been sought by Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, which represents workers in several departments. Their requests were not discussed last night.

Midland Board Receives Report On School Move

At a meeting of the Midland Board of Education Monday night School Supt. Wilbur Dershimer presented a report on talks held with Pennsylvania officials Friday at Harrisburg concerning possible school consolidations.

He said he and James (Sonny) Migliore spoke with Dr. Herbert Bryan, assistant commissioner of school administration, and Walter D. Heckman, supervisor of school administrative services.

Migliore was spokesman for a group of citizens which urged the Midland board last week to consider action toward reorganization, involving South Side or Western Beaver School Districts.

The need for enlarging curriculum offerings to students and other possible advantages were cited in such reorganization.

Supt. Dershimer said both officials said a single district could be formed by two or more mutually agreed districts, and that all property, indebtedness and rental obligations would then become the responsibility of the new district.

A new tax program would be established, he said. All present board members would become part of the new school board which would be gradually reduced to nine members through regular elections.

Dershimer said Act 299 formerly governed mergers, unions and jointures of school districts, but went out of effect in July 1966, replaced by Act 385 governing reorganizations of districts.

A petition for reorganization may be presented collectively by all districts interested in reorganizations, or may be individually presented by interested districts.

These must be submitted to the superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania would place the petitions on the agenda for consideration by the state board of education for review.

Dershimer said he and Migliore were told that Midland is free to talk with the Western Beaver School District and with Beaver. He said although Midland may discuss re-organization with Southern Beaver Jointure they were reminded that Southern Beaver is tied up in litigation and no decision could be made until the court case is heard.

Dershimer concluded his remarks to the board Monday night by reminding it that for re-organization of school districts, a mutual petitioning must be carried out by all interested school districts.

He said in the meantime, the board can have discussions on the subject.

Federal Milk Market Order Urged In Pittsburgh District

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Penn State milk marketing specialist says Western Pennsylvania should be placed under a federal milk marketing order.

Dr. C.W. Pierce recommended Monday at a U. S. Agriculture Department hearing the establishment of a Tri—State federal marketing area to create a stable market for farmers and to provide an adequate supply of milk for consumers.

"Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania," said Pierce, "is one of the largest interstate markets in which producers are not protected by a system of classified prices and established by federal order.

"In recent years, the Western Pennsylvania market has seldom been free from instability and at times has been severely disorganized.

"Handlers have paid unequal prices for milk, while local producers have either lost fluid markets to unpriced milk or have cut prices in order to retain markets," he said.

Pierce was questioned on possible conflict between federal market orders and rulings by the state Milk Control Commission.

He replied that a federal order would only regulate the price paid to farmers, while the commission rules on prices paid by consumers.

About 20 members of the United Dairy Farmers (UDF) picketed outside the hotel where the hearing was held. Some carried signs protesting any type of control.

One dairy farmer testified at the hearing he's against federal controls, and another said he's leary about them.

Sam Mellinger of Hermonie, Westmoreland County, said farmers belonging to the Dairymen's Cooperative Sales Association (DCSA) were not consulted about federal controls, yet the association has been pressing for them.

Edward Goldscheitter, a farmer from Sarver, Butler County, said farmers are apprehensive about how their income would be affected by a federal order.

The hearing was requested the DCSA, the Erie—Crawford Cooperative Association, the Milk Producers Association and the Northwestern Cooperative Sales Association.

Ernest Hays, president of the UDF, said the cooperatives petitioning for a federal order did not consult members of his organization. He said officers of the cooperatives want a federal order only to perpetuate themselves in office.

The hearing continues in Erie March 28.

The federal government is trying to determine whether 14 counties in Western Pennsylvania and eight counties in Ohio should be included under a federal marketing order now covering Northeastern Ohio, Youngstown—Warren, Ohio, and Wheeling, W.Va.

County Given Proposal For Subdivisions

LISBON — County commissioners have under consideration "Preliminary Subdivision Regulations," a mimeographed 8-x-11-inch book presented to them Monday by J. L. Morrissey, director of the Regional Planning Commission.

The proposed regulations have been months in preparation and have been reviewed by committees, the Planning Commission and county real estate people and builders.

Morrissey will meet with the commissioners again next Monday in the interest of getting the regulations approved.

Commissioners employed two bus drivers for the Retarded Children's School at $198 per month. John Hiscox of Lisbon R. D. 1 will succeed Harry Green of Hanoverton and Marjorie Gallo of 221 W. High St. will replace George Dotson of Lisbon.

Mrs. Jewell Yost of N. Market St., a former employe in the Courthouse, was employed as a proof reader in the microfilm program at $300 per month, effective April 1.

S. L. Dornon, custodian in Eastern Area Court at East Palestine, was authorized to do interior painting there. Vincent Weyant, Lisbon painting contractor, was hired to paint the recorder's office and the commissioners' meeting room at an estimated $145 for both.

Commissioners said they have received letters favoring rural house numbering from Damascus Ruritan Club, Calcutta volunteer fire department and Mile Branch Grange.

LISBON — Carl H. Alesi Jr., 18, of Salem R. D. 4 and Clarence P. Trotter, 59, of 402 W. Washington St. forfeited $15 appearance bonds Monday in mayor's court.

Probe Solves Local Thefts

They questioned three youths, two of them juveniles, about the theft of at least 28 new tires between Jan. 15 and March 17.

Gerald Crabtree, 18, of Ravine St. pleaded not guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of the juveniles, 16 and 17.

Judge Tobin set Crabtree's bond at $1,500 and scheduled his hearing for 9 a. m. April 11.

The hearing for the 17-year-old will be next Monday at 9. Both he and Crabtree are in custody.

The court released the 16 - year-old to his mother and set the hearing for April 11. The boy admitted being involved, officers said.

Midland Board Receives Report On School Move

At a meeting of the Midland Board of Education Monday night School Supt. Wilbur Dershimer presented a report on talks held with Pennsylvania officials Friday at Harrisburg concerning possible school consolidations.

He said he and James (Sonny) Migliore spoke with Dr. Herbert Bryan, assistant commissioner of school administration, and Walter D. Heckman, supervisor of school administrative services.

Migliore was spokesman for a group of citizens which urged the Midland board last week to consider action toward reorganization, involving South Side or Western Beaver School Districts.

The need for enlarging curriculum offerings to students and other possible advantages were cited in such reorganization.

Supt. Dershimer said both officials said a single district could be formed by two or more mutually agreed districts, and that all property, indebtedness and rental obligations would then become the responsibility of the new district.

A new tax program would be established, he said. All present board members would become part of the new school board which would be gradually reduced to nine members through regular elections.

Dershimer said Act 299 formerly governed mergers, unions and jointures of school districts, but went out of effect in July 1966, replaced by Act 385 governing reorganizations of districts.

A petition for reorganization may be presented collectively by all districts interested in reorganizations, or may be individually presented by interested districts.

These must be submitted to the superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania would place the petitions on the agenda for consideration by the state board of education for review.

Dershimer said he and Migliore were told that Midland is free to talk with the Western Beaver School District and with Beaver. He said although Midland may discuss re-organization with Southern Beaver Jointure they were reminded that Southern Beaver is tied up in litigation and no decision could be made until the court case is heard.

Dershimer concluded his remarks to the board Monday night by reminding it that for re-organization of school districts, a mutual petitioning must be carried out by all interested school districts.

He said in the meantime, the board can have discussions on the subject.

Federal Milk Market Order Urged In Pittsburgh District

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Penn State milk marketing specialist says Western Pennsylvania should be placed under a federal milk marketing order.

Dr. C.W. Pierce recommended Monday at a U. S. Agriculture Department hearing the establishment of a Tri—State federal marketing area to create a stable market for farmers and to provide an adequate supply of milk for consumers.

"Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania," said Pierce, "is one of the largest interstate markets in which producers are not protected by a system of classified prices and established by federal order.

"In recent years, the Western Pennsylvania market has seldom been free from instability and at times has been severely disorganized.

"Handlers have paid unequal prices for milk, while local producers have either lost fluid markets to unpriced milk or have cut prices in order to retain markets," he said.

Pierce was questioned on possible conflict between federal market orders and rulings by the state Milk Control Commission.

He replied that a federal order would only regulate the price paid to farmers, while the commission rules on prices paid by consumers.

About 20 members of the United Dairy Farmers (UDF) picketed outside the hotel where the hearing was held. Some carried signs protesting any type of control.

One dairy farmer testified at the hearing he's against federal controls, and another said he's leary about them.

Sam Mellinger of Hermonie, Westmoreland County, said farmers belonging to the Dairymen's Cooperative Sales Association (DCSA) were not consulted about federal controls, yet the association has been pressing for them.

Edward Goldscheitter, a farmer from Sarver, Butler County, said farmers are apprehensive about how their income would be affected by a federal order.

The hearing was requested the DCSA, the Erie—Crawford Cooperative Association, the Milk Producers Association and the Northwestern Cooperative Sales Association.

Ernest Hays, president of the UDF, said the cooperatives petitioning for a federal order did not consult members of his organization. He said officers of the cooperatives want a federal order only to perpetuate themselves in office.

The hearing continues in Erie March 28.

The federal government is trying to determine whether 14 counties in Western Pennsylvania and eight counties in Ohio should be included under a federal marketing order now covering Northeastern Ohio, Youngstown—Warren, Ohio, and Wheeling, W.Va.

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson has named Thomas V. H. Vail, publisher of The Cleveland Plain Dealer, to a three-year term on the Advisory Commission on Information.

County Given Proposal For Subdivisions

LISBON — County commissioners have under consideration "Preliminary Subdivision Regulations," a mimeographed 8-x-11-inch book presented to them Monday by J. L. Morrissey, director of the Regional Planning Commission.

The proposed regulations have been months in preparation and have been reviewed by committees, the Planning Commission and county real estate people and builders.

Morrissey will meet with the commissioners again next Monday in the interest of getting the regulations approved.

Commissioners employed two bus drivers for the Retarded Children's School at $198 per month. John Hiscox of Lisbon R. D. 1 will succeed Harry Green of Hanoverton and Marjorie Gallo of 221 W. High St. will replace George Dotson of Lisbon.

Mrs. Jewell Yost of N. Market St., a former employe in the Courthouse, was employed as a proof reader in the microfilm program at $300 per month, effective April 1.

S. L. Dornon, custodian in Eastern Area Court at East Palestine, was authorized to do interior painting there. Vincent Weyant, Lisbon painting contractor, was hired to paint the recorder's office and the commissioners' meeting room at an estimated $145 for both.

Commissioners said they have received letters favoring rural house numbering from Damascus Ruritan Club, Calcutta volunteer fire department and Mile Branch Grange.

Two Forfeit Bonds In Cases At Lisbon

LISBON — Carl H. Alesi Jr., 18, of Salem R. D. 4 and Clarence P. Trotter, 59, of 402 W. Washington St. forfeited $15 appearance bonds Monday in mayor's court.

Lisbon police charged Alesi March 13 with passing traffic in a hazardous zone and Trotter March 18 with failure to stop in an assured clear distance.

Probe Solves Local Thefts

They questioned three youths, two of them juveniles, about the theft of at least 28 new tires between Jan. 15 and March 17.

Gerald Crabtree, 18, of Ravine St. pleaded not guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of the juveniles, 16 and 17.

Judge Tobin set Crabtree's bond at $1,500 and scheduled his hearing for 9 a. m. April 11.

The hearing for the 17-year-old will be next Monday at 9. Both he and Crabtree are in custody.

The court released the 16-year-old to his mother and set the hearing for April 11. The boy admitted being involved, officers said.

Lt. Farrar Gets 'Defense Award'

Second Lt. James Farrar, son of Mrs. Florence Farrar and the late Sylvester Farrar, received his commission and was awarded the United Defense Award recently.

Lt. Farrar is a graduate of John Carroll University and attended Cleveland Law School.

He took his basic training and advanced infantry training at Ft. Knox, Ky., with special training as a tank crewman.

Following this, Farrar underwent 26 weeks of officers' candidate school, with emphasis on infantry tactics and transportation training.

He now will report to the Army training center at Ft. Ord, Calif.

Sanity Group Awaited In Multiple Murders

BEAVER —Mrs. Mary Zlatovich of Ohioville was in Beaver County jail today awaiting appointment of a sanity commission to determine if she should stand trial for the 1964 slaying of her four children.

Mrs. Zlatovich was transferred from Dixmont State Hospital where she had been for 2½ years. Beaver County Court has been requested by District Atty. Robert Masters to appoint a sanity commission to determine if she should be released for trial.

LBJ Fires The Manager

The idea is filtering through the American peoples consciousness that more is involved in changing top management of the crusade in Vietnam than another government snow job.

This country is accustomed to what always happens when a ball club has a losing season. The manager gets fired.

The owners must create a new image to win support at the boxoffice. As often as not, the switch in the high command is a cynical plot to pull the wool over somebody's eyes.

But the rest of the time it is a deadly serious change of personalities, to produce a more acceptable result.

President Johnson needs a more acceptable result in his Asiatic crusade that grew out of his predecessors' undeclared war to shore up a wobbling government that later had to be knocked over by the United States, itself.

If all he can offer his political backers a year from now is the drab prospect of a bloody war stretching intermindably into the future, with a steady stream of U. S. billions being spent in Southeast Asia and a steady stream of U. S. fatalities being shipped him in GI coffins, the American people will demand a change of management. He knows that.

It will not matter at the ballot boxes in 1968 how much high-flown talk there is about wiping out political badness in Vietnam before it has a chance to spread to Peoria, Ill., or some other imaginary point of vulnerability in the American way of life.

A repetition of the death-wish campaigning of Barry Goldwater in 1964, when he favored all-out war in Southeast Asia and Lyndon Johnson stood for moderation, would bring the same result it brought then. The all-outs would be swamped.

President Johnson has everything to lose and nothing to gain by changing managers in South Vietnam. If he cannot put a better face on the Asiatic crusade than it bears now, he will be following Harry Truman into political limbo.

Mr. Truman did not even go through the motions of asking for a second term in 1952. He bequeathed the whiplash of his Asian War to Adlai Stevenson, whose fate at the polls was sealed when Dwight Eisenhower promised to extricate the Unied States from the shambles on the Korean peninsula.

This country's Asiatic adventures are not turning out happily. There will be a lot more managers fired. As they say in baseball, it's beginning to look like a long season.

It's an odd thing to remember now, but Gen. Douglas MacArthur said something on that score when he made his memorable "farewell address" to a joint session of Congress April 19, 1951.

He had favored all-out bombing of Manchuria, which was standard military thought at that time, just as all-out bombing of North Vietnam is today.

But when he was saying his farewell, he spoke as an observer as well as a militarist. Colonialsim in Asia, he said, was dead and gone. Asiatic nationalism was the new dominant force. The west should not underestimate it.

He did not know then that France would be routed in Indochina, the Dutch in Indonesia, though the British already had left India and foreigners had been ousted in China.

The names have changed in 1967, but the circumstances are the same. Asiatics are still ousting foreigners.

MacArthur was not immune to the rule that when things don't go well, the first thing to do is fire the manager. That was why he was making a farewell address in the early spring of 1951.

He had brought about Chinese intervention in the Korean War.

The United States was piling up a staggering total of 157,530 casualties, including 33,629 battle deaths and 20,617 other deaths inflicted by enemies with unpronounceable names and incomprehensible beliefs.

President Truman was trying to create a new image. Later, he, too, was shelved in favor of Mr. Stevenson, but the damage had been done.

Richard Nixon In Moscow

Richard M. Nixon, a professional politician, could not understand why he was ignored by officialdom in Moscow when he arrived there on his trip abroad. Perhaps he could understand why his countrymen were confused by his declaration that he should have been given a red-carpet reception.

Why?

Mr. Nixon's fellow Americans, regardless of how they feel about him as an individual, are aware of his lack of official political status.

That role is reserved to the party's most recent presidential candidate. In this instance, this is Barry M. Goldwater, Republican standard bearer in 1964.

Yet, in the topsy-turvy infrastructure of political parties in this country, the former senator from Arizona, who is not a candidate for another presidential nomination, is not bidding for recognition and Mr. Nixon is.

In these circumstances, it is not unprecedented for other governments to recognize the political aspirations of visiting Americans. This is done in the spirit of covering all the bases.

But Moscow has more to think about than Mr. Nixon's aspirations. It has to think about Lyndon Johnson's aspiration. George Romney's aspirations, Bobby Kennedy's aspirations and its own aspirations.

If it had rolled out a red carpet for Mr. Nixon, it would have needed to have red carpets for every other non-state political travelers arriving in Moscow.

It is easy to understand why Mr. Nixon was peeved when no carpet was unrolled for him but not to understand why he admitted it. If he had said nothing, no one would have been the wiser.

His countrymen wouldn't even had been aware of his whereabouts as a world traveler. They would have remembered only that he had been received by Pope Paul VI in Rome, which is more than most travelers can look forward to in their peregrinations.

A New Scapegoat Named Illinois

The athletic pot is still boiling at Champaign, Ill., as the three coaches involved in a $20,000 slush fund operation step out of the picture.

The Big Ten told the University of Illinois to fire the men or face indefinite suspension. The coaches resigned rather than place the burden of such a choice on university officials.

Again the world of athletics has exacted its sacrifice of a scapegoat.

It happens every now and then. A college under tremendous pressure to produce a winner becomes over-zealous in recruiting. Special inducements are added to persuade a gifted athlete to attend the right school.

The conference does not conduct a full investigation into the practices of all its members; it just heaps punishment upon the offending school.

The practice does not teach conference members to abide by the rules, it teaches them to be secretive. They in turn teach some athletes they can fare better by agreeing to bend or break a few rules.

This vicious circle attaches a smutty stigma to sports that it does not deserve.

When a conference has developed a policy that is violated in some manner by most of its members (some hide it better than others) and forces an athlete to look around for the best deal, cracking down hard only now and then — it is time to take a look at that policy with an eye toward revision.

Sinkiang

Turmoil in Communist China has focused attention on Sinkiang, a huge China - oriented region adjoining Soviet Central Asia.

The current troubles within Sinkiang and along the Soviet frontier are nothing new. Warlordism, struggles between dissident tribal groups, and conflict between China and Russia for control of this inner Asia heartland have marked its history for more than a century, the National Geographic Society says.

Sinkiang was the site of Red China's first atomic explosion in 1964. Like the desolate test areas of New Mexico, Nevada, Siberia, and the Sahara, Communist China's westernmost region has rugged mountains, wind-swept plains, and trackless desserts. Its name means New Dominion or New Frontier.

The Chickens Come Home To Roost

A Hawk In Space

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

The U. S. Senate is now discussing a treaty on outer space with the Soviet Union which provides that the moon and other celestial bodies shall be used exclusively for peaceful purposes, and the establishment of military bases is prohibited.

Art Buchwald

Sen. Eugene McCarthy of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee thinks we're getting our treaties all mixed up. If we're going to have a war, he would much prefer it to take place in outer space rather than in the populated areas where we seem to fight our battles now.

His suggestion is that we should be working on a treaty that says any future wars must only be fought in outer space, and the place where people live must be used exclusively for peaceful purposes.

There has been so much concentration on the troubles in Vietnam that we haven't been able to devote much thought to outer space. I personally think it would be a great mistake to use outer space for peaceful purposes. This is not only because of Sen. McCarthy's remarks, but because if we go exploring other celestial bodies without a military capability we're bound to get into a heck of a lot of trouble.

THE MOON, as far as anyone can tell, is no problem, but once you start messing around with other planets you're bound to run into hostile situations.

We have to assume there is life in outer space and we also have to assume these beings are not going to necessarily welcome us with open arms. If they're smaller than we are, they will be afraid that we have come to conquer them. And if they're larger than we are, they'll probably beat us up just for the fun of it.

At the beginning we might be able to get along with them, but pretty soon as more people arrive from earth there's bound to be friction. It might start over a simple thing like a girl (or whatever they call them in outer space). Or it could be caused by our building a liquor store on a planet and not selling the natives any drinks because of their color (we'll have to figure they're going to be green until we hear otherwise). Or it could begin because we promised to pay them $24 for their planet and then reneged on it.

In any case the first settlers from earth will have to have protection from space beings and this would be the job of the U. S. space cavalry. They would build forts around our settlements, send out patrols along the milky way and move the space beings to special sererv ations set up for them, presumably on uninhibited planets. If the beings refused to go, the cavalry would have no choice but to attack and destroy them.

ANOTHER REASON for not signing the treaty is that if we visit other planets, the beings might demand reciprocal rights to visit the earth and J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI would be hard pressed to keep tabs on all of them.

There may be doves who say that the military should keep their hands off celestial bodies. But experience tells us that if we show any sign of weakness to other planets they will interpret it as an indication that we're not willing to fight for what we believe in.

So I say it's a mistake to approve a treaty on outer space if it doesn't provide for adequate defensive measures against green spatial enemies who would destroy any way of life we might set up there.

Write your senator today.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

We are students at Wellsville High School and would like to direct this letter to the voters of the Wellsville School District.

Our school board is, for the fourth time, placing a school tax levy on the May primary ballot in order to obtain the money to raise our teachers' salaries. We want to ask you to vote for it. We realize that you, the taxpayers, already have a heavy burden and this additional tax will only make it worse. Five more mills of tax is a large amount and will be a severe blow to some of you, but the failure of this levy will be a much more severe blow to this school system.

Also, we know that there are many of you who don't agree with the Board of Education, the administration, or many of the teachers, with or without cause, and will vote against this issue just out of spite. It is not these people you will hurt, however, by voting against the levy. It is the students who will lose.

In action taken by the board last week, the teachers got their salary raise. We feel they deserved it. Wellsville teachers were extremely low paid in comparison to teachers even in our own area, not to mention people in other professions. The starting salaries for teachers with four years of college, here, was $500 a year below the minimum standard set by the state teachers' association. The Wellsville system has also had extreme difficulty in getting new teachers to replace the ones who have retired or gone to seek higher paying jobs. This year we were not able to get Latin or Commercial teachers until several weeks after the school year had started and many of our present teachers are nearing or have passed the age in which they can teach effectively.

The skills and subjects that these teachers teach are greatly needed by the students, especially the ones going to college or professional schools, and the lack of them will seriously inhibit us. But it takes money to hire teachers, and Wellsville doesn't have it.

The school board has now given the raise to the teachers, but unless you appropriate the money, the board will have to apply the cutbacks which you read about in The Review. This is not a threat by the school board in order to make you vote for this levy, but these things will be necessary if the levy doesn't pass. We ourselves are seniors and will be graduating in June so we won't be affected by these cuts, but we feel that the underclassmen deserve at least the same chances that we got. In the years we have been in high school, we have always been proud and felt that Wellsville offered one of the best and friendliest programs of extra-curricular activities around and we want the students behind us to have the same. Some of you may say that school isn't for extra-curricular activities, it's for learning.

But we feel, and we're sure a lot of you will remember, that football and basketball games, track meets, proms, plays and clubs are as integral a part of high school as reading, writing and arithmetic. Some of you who have no children in school may say, "Why should I pay to let somebody else's kids have fun?" But you must remember — you went to school once too. Can you think what your high school days would have been like without sports, dances, clubs, plays, or music? The band and choir directors will be dismissed if the levy fails. Some of our teachers can and some of the best have said they will resign if the levy fails again.

So, we ask you sincerely, please vote for the school levy. Show us as we go away to college that you have enough confidence in Wellsville and the schools to make us want to come back.

U. S. Educational Move Questioned

Nowhere in the Constitution, in a Supreme Court decision, or in an act of Congress is authority given the federal government to tell the public schools what teachers they may select or otherwise to exercise control over the choice of faculty members of an educational institution.

Yet, the U. S. commissioner of education has just notified 17 state governments that, in effect, he intends to withhold federal funds unless they obey the rules he lays down.

The circular letter to the state school superintendents says that at least two Negro teachers must be assigned to predominently white schools and two white teachers to each school where Negroes are in the majority.

The objective is to start to achieve "racial balance,' and each year hereafter the quotas will be increased.

Neither the Supreme Court nor any law of Congress since the court's 1954 decision on segregation has commanded schools to "integrate."

The only word used is "desegregation," and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 defines it as follows:

"'Desegregation' means assignment of students to public schools and within such school without regard to their race, color, religion, or national origin, but 'desegregation' shall not mean assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance."

Congress is doing nothing about the flagrant violations of the law involved in stretching the word "desegregation" to include assignment or selection of teachers. It is true the statute provides for appeal to the courts against such action, but this involves lengthy and costly litigation. And what school district likes to antagonize the agency of the federal government which controls the purse strings?

This is a matter for Congress. It can forbid use of public funds as a form of blackmail or purposes not set forth in the law.

The "desegregation" decision of the Supreme Court in 1954 ruled that assignment of students in public schools solely on the basis of race is in violation of the 14th Amendment, which guarantees "equal protection of the laws" to all citizens.

The decision did not say local school authorities cannot use other criteria in the assignment of pupils, and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 specifically provides nothing in the law "shall prohibit classification and assignment for reasons other than race, color, religion, or national origin."

But if a local board permits students to choose which school within the district they will attend, the same rule has to be applied to all, irrespective of race or color.

Selection of teachers, however, is the prerogative of a school district. The U.S. Department of Education, on the other hand, has virtually taken over the educational system. Will choice of textbooks come next?

Some idea of what is happening can be gained by a reading of the testimony of Duane J. Matteis, Minnesota's commissioner of education, who told the House Education and Labor Committee that many federal education programs are being injured by "a mixture of politics, bureaucracy and increased control and direction from the U.S. Office of Education.' He added:

"From what I have experienced, all ideas and innovations relating to education, good ones that is, don't originate in the U.S. Office of Education, and they never will. There is need for significant additional state responsibility and authority with regard to the administration of federal education legislation."

This issue doubtless will emerge in the next political campaign. President Johnson thus far has acquiesced in the concept that federal funds may be used to coerce the states.

He had favored all-out bombing of Manchuria, which was standard military thought at that time, just as all-out bombing of North Vietnam is today.

But when he was saying his farewell, he spoke as an observer as well as a militarist. Colonialsim in Asia, he said, was dead and gone. Asiatic nationalism was the new dominant force. The west should not underestimate it.

He did not know then that France would be routed in Indochina, the Dutch in Indonesia, though the British already had left India and foreigners had been ousted in China.

The names have changed in 1967, but the circumstances are the same. Asiatics are still ousting foreigners.

MacArthur was not immune to the rule that when things don't go well, the first thing to do is fire the manager. That was why he was making a farewell address in the early spring of 1951.

He had brought about Chinese intervention in the Korean War.

The United States was piling up a staggering total of 157,530 casualties, including 33,629 battle deaths and 20,617 other deaths inflicted by enemies with unpronounceable names and incomprehensible beliefs.

President Truman was trying to create a new image. Later, he, too, was shelved in favor of Mr. Stevenson, but the damage had been done.

Richard Nixon In Moscow

Richard M. Nixon, a professional politician, could not understand why he was ignored by officialdom in Moscow when he arrived there on his trip abroad. Perhaps he could understand why his countrymen were confused by his declaration that he should have been given a red-carpet reception.

Why?

Mr. Nixon's fellow Americans, regardless of how they feel about him as an individual, are aware of his lack of official political status.

He is not the official spokesman for the minority party.

That role is reserved to the party's most recent presidential candidate. In this instance, this is Barry M. Goldwater, Republican standard bearer in 1964.

Yet, in the topsy-turvy infrastructure of political parties in this country, the former senator from Arizona, who is not a candidate for another presidential nomination, is not bidding for recognition and Mr. Nixon is.

In these circumstances, it is not unprecedented for other governments to recognize the political aspirations of visiting Americans. This is done in the spirit of covering all the bases.

But Moscow has more to think about than Mr. Nixon's aspirations. It has to think about Lyndon Johnson's aspiration. George Romney's aspirations, Bobby Kennedy's aspirations and its own aspirations.

If it had rolled out a red carpet for Mr. Nixon, it would have needed to have red carpets for every other non-state political travelers arriving in Moscow.

It is easy to understand why Mr. Nixon was peeved when no carpet was unrolled for him but not to understand why he admitted it. If he had said nothing, no one would have been the wiser.

His countrymen wouldn't even had been aware of his whereabouts as a world traveler. They would have remembered only that he had been received by Pope Paul VI in Rome, which is more than most travelers can look forward to in their peregrinations.

A New Scapegoat Named Illinois

The athletic pot is still boiling at Champaign, Ill., as the three coaches involved in a $20,000 slush fund operation step out of the picture.

The Big Ten told the University of Illinois to fire the men or face indefinite suspension. The coaches resigned rather than place the burden of such a choice on university officials.

Again the world of athletics has exacted its sacrifice of a scapegoat.

It happens every now and then. A college under tremendous pressure to produce a winner becomes over-zealous in recruiting. Special inducements are added to persuade a gifted athlete to attend the right school.

The conference does not conduct a full investigation into the practices of all its members; it just heaps punishment upon the offending school.

The practice does not teach conference members to abide by the rules, it teaches them to be secretive. They in turn teach some athletes they can fare better by agreeing to bend or break a few rules.

This vicious circle attaches a smutty stigma to sports that it does not deserve.

When a conference has developed a policy that is violated in some manner by most of its members (some hide it better than others) and forces an athlete to look around for the best deal, cracking down hard only now and then — it is time to take a look at that policy with an eye toward revision.

Sinkiang

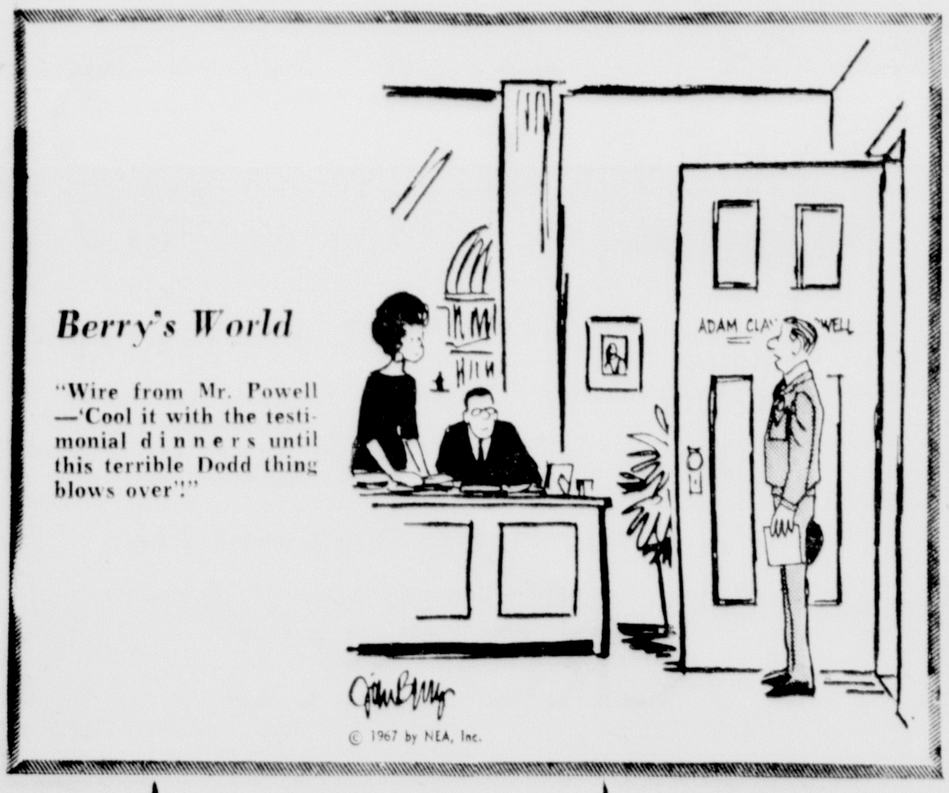
The current troubles within Sinkiang and along the Soviet frontier are nothing new. Warlordism, struggles between dissident tribal groups, and conflict between China and Russia for control of this inner Asia heartland have marked its history for more than a century, the National Geographic Society says.

Sinkiang was the site of Red China's first atomic explosion in 1964. Like the desolate test areas of New Mexico, Nevada, Siberia, and the Sahara, Communist China's westernmost region has rugged mountains, wind-swept plains, and trackless desserts. Its name means New Dominion or New Frontier.



The Chickens Come Home To Roost

A Hawk In Space

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

The U. S. Senate is now discussing a treaty on outer space with the Soviet Union which provides that the moon and other celestial bodies shall be used exclusively for peaceful purposes, and the establishment of military bases is prohibited.

Art Buchwald

Sen. Eugene McCarthy of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee thinks we're getting our treaties all mixed up. If we're going to have a war, he would much prefer it to take place in outer space rather than in the populated areas where we seem to fight our battles now.

His suggestion is that we should be working on a treaty that says any future wars must only be fought in outer space, and the place where people live must be used exclusively for peaceful purposes.

There has been so much concentration on the troubles in Vietnam that we haven't been able to devote much thought to outer space. I personally think it would be a great mistake to use outer space for peaceful purposes. This is not only because of Sen. McCarthy's remarks, but because if we go exploring other celestial bodies without a military capability we're bound to get into a heck of a lot of trouble.

THE MOON, as far as anyone can tell, is no problem, but once you start messing around with other planets you're bound to run into hostile situations.

We have to assume there is life in outer space and we also have to assume these beings are not going to necessarily welcome us with open arms. If they're smaller than we are, they will be afraid that we have come to conquer them. And if they're larger than we are, they'll probably beat us up just for the fun of it.

At the beginning we might be able to get along with them, but pretty soon as more people arrive from earth there's bound to be friction. It might start over a simple thing like a girl (or whatever they call them in outer space). Or it could be caused by our building a liquor store on a planet and not selling the natives any drinks because of their color (we'll have to figure they're going to be green until we hear otherwise). Or it could begin because we promised to pay them $24 for their planet and then reneged on it.

In any case the first settlers from earth will have to have protection from space beings and this would be the job of the U. S. space cavalry. They would build forts around our settlements, send out patrols along the milky way and move the space beings to special serervations set up for them, presumably on uninhibited planets. If the beings refused to go, the cavalry would have no choice but to attack and destroy them.

ANOTHER REASON for not signing the treaty is that if we visit other planets, the beings might demand reciprocal rights to visit the earth and J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI would be hard pressed to keep tabs on all of them.

There may be doves who say that the military should keep their hands off celestial bodies. But experience tells us that if we show any sign of weakness to other planets they will interpret it as an indication that we're not willing to fight for what we believe in.

So I say it's a mistake to approve a treaty on outer space if it doesn't provide for adequate defensive measures against green spatial enemies who would destroy any way of life we might set up there.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

We are students at Wellsville High School and would like to direct this letter to the voters of the Wellsville School District.

Our school board is, for the fourth time, placing a school tax levy on the May primary ballot in order to obtain the money to raise our teachers' salaries. We want to ask you to vote for it. We realize that you, the taxpayers, already have a heavy burden and this additional tax will only make it worse. Five more mills of tax is a large amount and will be a severe blow to some of you, but the failure of this levy will be a much more severe blow to this school system.

Also, we know that there are many of you who don't agree with the Board of Education, the administration, or many of the teachers, with or without cause, and will vote against this issue just out of spite. It is not these people you will hurt, however, by voting against the levy. It is the students who will lose.

In action taken by the board last week, the teachers got their salary raise. We feel they deserved it. Wellsville teachers were extremely low paid in comparison to teachers even in our own area, not to mention people in other professions. The starting salaries for teachers with four years of college, here, was $500 a year below the minimum standard set by the state teachers' association. The Wellsville system has also had extreme difficulty in getting new teachers to replace the ones who have retired or gone to seek higher paying jobs. This year we were not able to get Latin or Commercial teachers until several weeks after the school year had started and many of our present teachers are nearing or have passed the age in which they can teach effectively.

The skills and subjects that these teachers teach are greatly needed by the students, especially the ones going to college or professional schools, and the lack of them will seriously inhibit us. But it takes money to hire teachers, and Wellsville doesn't have it.

The school board has now given the raise to the teachers, but unless you appropriate the money, the board will have to apply the cutbacks which you read about in The Review. This is not a threat by the school board in order to make you vote for this levy, but these things will be necessary if the levy doesn't pass. We ourselves are seniors and will be graduating in June so we won't be affected by these cuts, but we feel that the underclassmen deserve at least the same chances that we got. In the years we have been in high school, we have always been proud and felt that Wellsville offered one of the best and friendliest programs of extra-curricular activities around and we want the students behind us to have the same. Some of you may say that school isn't for extra-curricular activities, it's for learning.

But we feel, and we're sure a lot of you will remember, that football and basketball games, track meets, proms, plays and clubs are as integral a part of high school as reading, writing and arithmetic. Some of you who have no children in school may say, "Why should I pay to let somebody else's kids have fun?" But you must remember — you went to school once too. Can you think what your high school days would have been like without sports, dances, clubs, plays, or music? The band and choir directors will be dismissed if the levy fails. Some of our teachers can and some of the best have said they will resign if the levy fails again.

So, we ask you sincerely, please vote for the school levy. Show us as we go away to college that you have enough confidence in Wellsville and the schools to make us want to come back.

U. S. Educational Move Questioned

Nowhere in the Constitution, in a Supreme Court decision, or in an act of Congress is authority given the federal government to tell the public schools what teachers they may select or otherwise to exercise control over the choice of faculty members of an educational institution.

Yet, the U. S. commissioner of education has just notified 17 state governments that, in effect, he intends to withhold federal funds unless they obey the rules he lays down.

The circular letter to the state school superintendents says that at least two Negro teachers must be assigned to predominently white schools and two white teachers to each school where Negroes are in the majority.

The objective is to start to achieve "racial balance,' and each year hereafter the quotas will be increased.

Neither the Supreme Court nor any law of Congress since the court's 1954 decision on segregation has commanded schools to "integrate."

The only word used is "desegregation," and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 defines it as follows:

"'Desegregation' means assignment of students to public schools and within such school without regard to their race, color, religion, or national origin, but 'desegregation' shall not mean assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance."

Congress is doing nothing about the flagrant violations of the law involved in stretching the word "desegregation" to include assignment or selection of teachers. It is true the statute provides for appeal to the courts against such action, but this involves lengthy and costly litigation. And what school district likes to antagonize the agency of the federal government which controls the purse strings?

This is a matter for Congress. It can forbid use of public funds as a form of blackmail or purposes not set forth in the law.

The "desegregation" decision of the Supreme Court in 1954 ruled that assignment of students in public schools solely on the basis of race is in violation of the 14th Amendment, which guarantees "equal protection of the laws" to all citizens.

The decision did not say local school authorities cannot use other criteria in the assignment of pupils, and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 specifically provides nothing in the law "shall prohibit classification and assignment for reasons other than race, color, religion, or national origin."

But if a local board permits students to choose which school within the district they will attend, the same rule has to be applied to all, irrespective of race or color.

Selection of teachers, however, is the prerogative of a school district. The U.S. Department of Education, on the other hand, has virtually taken over the educational system. Will choice of textbooks come next?

Some idea of what is happening can be gained by a reading of the testimony of Duane J. Matteis, Minnesota's commissioner of education, who told the House Education and Labor Committee that many federal education programs are being injured by "a mixture of politics, bureaucracy and increased control and direction from the U.S. Office of Education.' He added:

"From what I have experienced, all ideas and innovations relating to education, good ones that is, don't originate in the U.S. Office of Education, and they never will. There is need for significant additional state responsibility and authority with regard to the administration of federal education legislation."

This issue doubtless will emerge in the next political campaign. President Johnson thus far has acquiesced in the concept that federal funds may be used to coerce the states.

NFO President Receives Threat

CHICAGO (AP) — Oren Lee Staley's wife and three children were whisked from their home to a secret location Monday night following a telephoned threat against Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization which is withholding milk in 25 states.

The six-day-old holding action aims at boosting by two cents a quart the price paid dairy farmers for milk.

"We're very confident that the available supply of milk is being cut into very rapidly and that the industry is doing everything possible to shift things around. And their supply is getting very thin," Staley said.

Police refused to say where they took Staley's wife and three children, ages 10 through 15, but the family was returned to its Whitesville, Mo., home before midnight.

Staley said only that the caller threatened the family "generally.' He said he was not worried because "I have a lot of local NFO neighbors and they will take care of the situation." Staley spoke from NFO headquarters in Corning, Iowa.

Meanwhile, arrests and incidents of violence multiplied, millions of gallons of milk were spilled and tempers rubbed raw. But effects were hard to gauge.

Staley claimed a two-cent-a-quart retail milk price increase in Omaha was an NFO victory, though retailers argued it was merely a market correction after a price war.

Some areas confessed lack of success. "It's not a heavy holding action," said NFO official Reuben Anders in Bucks County, Pa. "We realize we aren't going to dry up Doylestown or Philadelphia." He estimated, though, that the action had reduced the county's output by 10 per cent.

Western Pennsylvania Feeling Milk Holdout

The milk holdout was being felt by some dairies and cooperatives in Western Pennsylvania today as state police cruised rural areas on the alert for vandalism.

The Erie — Crawford Dairymen's Cooperative shut off Monday its supply of raw milk to Sealtest, a big Pittsburgh area processor.

However, William Stevens, Sealtest general manager, said the organization supplies less than 10 per cent of the firm's milk.

The cooperative said its intake of milk from farmers was down 30 to 35 per cent as farmers dumped their milk in a 25-state campaign trying to force up prices for farmers.

A dairy in Sharon reported a 10 to 15 per cent drop in supplies but said it could withstand a 20 per cent loss without trouble.

The Dairymen's Cooperative Sales Association in Pittsburgh said members were shipping 80 to 90 per cent of normal supplies.

Meanwhile, state police were watching for trouble.

Some 2,300 gallons of milk were forcibly dumped in the latest reported incidents.

Bish's Dairy in New Bethlehem said eight carloads of men and women drained a company truck of 860 gallons on a Fairmount City farm.

State police said a milk tanker was stopped north of Punxsutawney and 1,500 gallons were drained.

Ohio Farmers Buying Up Milk From Stores

Ohio dairy farmers affiliated with the National Farmers Organization have turned, in spots, to buying up milk from retail stores in their drive to take the product off the market.

But more spectacular, and in some cases violent, incidents were mounting around the state as the Buckeye part of a 25-state NFO milk holding action moved into its second week today.

Some of the latest reports to law enforcement agencies:

Highland County — Kenneth Penwell of Washington Court House, driving a truck for hauler Martin B. Cull, said he was flagged down while making rounds near Leesburg Monday. Two men, one using threatening language, Penwell charged, forced him to dump about 1,000 gallons of milk. Two other drivers had reported bullets being fired into their trucks in the county on Sunday.

Franklin County — A spokesman in Columbus for Harmony Farms, second largest milk processor in central Ohio, claimed a truckload of milk delivered to the farms Sunday was adulterated with kerosene. An estimated 1,800 gallons was poured down the drain.

Mercer County — Ronal Albens, 29, of Anna, driving for Larger Bros. Dairy Co., Fort Loramie, complained that at a farm near St. Marys a producer on the pretext of selling milk joined with neighbors to blockade his truck in the farm driveway.

Putnam County — as promised in advance notice to news media — and reporters and TV cameramen were on hand in number—area farmers dumped several thousand gallons on the Jerome Turnwald farm west of Ottoville.

Adams County — Nine farmers near Winchester reported their bulk milk tanks stripped and the contents poured out. Two of the "victims" were striking NFO members, according to another victim, Mark Kendell.

In Seneca County, NFO members staged a buying action Monday like the one in Ashland the day before when NFO men bought all the milk they could find in major stores and distributed it to the needy. John Cochran, president of the Seneca County chapter said, participating farmers converged on a Tiffin supermarket, shelled out more than $200 and took away 250 gallons in the back of a pickup truck.

Still, effects of the holding action remained unclear, with many cooperatives and processors maintaining they still were getting near-normal supply.

Some dealers in the Cincinnati area said they were beginning to feel the pinch, but one spokesman said the Easter vacation for school children will alleviate the problem. He explained that district schools ordinarily use more than 50,000 half pints a day for lunches.

Man's body is about 65 per cent oxygen.

Controversial Concept

Gov. Kirk's Anti-Crime Plan Studied In Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The state Cabinet gets a chance today to bestow or deny its blessing on Gov. Claude Kirk's controversial concept of fighting crime with private detectives and funds.

How much of his program the Republican governor would unfold for his six Democratic Cabinet members was not certain. Aides earlier said he would answer questions and list contributors to his anticrime war chest, but Kirk said Monday the Cabinet would be asked only to approve the setting up of an audited state trust fund to handle receipts.

He proposed an initial $150,000 account, which he said would provide "just the mechanics of administration of the money."

The Cabinet has the power to reject the financing method but the governor could resort to other financing if it did.

The Cabinet session comes seven days before a special election to fill the entire reapportioned legislature. None of the Cabinet members, elected statewide, are involved but Republicans who elected their first governor in 94 years last November have an unprecedented number of campaigners for House and Senate.

A showdown on Kirk's crusade could be avoided if the Cabinet members choose. They could name a committee to study the proposal and that would delay action until after the election or provide a respite in which to work out acceptable conditions for establishment of the fund.

Kirk, 41, whose gubernatorial campaign bristled with promises to drive crime out of Florida, dropped a bombshell during his Jan. 3 inaugural speech by announcing he had engaged the Wackenhut Corp. investigative agency to wage war on crime and that he was inviting contributions from individuals and organizations. He said the agents' duties would include checking backgrounds of candidates for appointive office.

The unorthodox approach to crime fighting quickly drew cries of "gestapo" and "Wackencops" and the like from some critics..

Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth said the governor's hired agents, answerable only to him, raised serious legal questions and was "fraught with the possibility of danger."

"Both the risk and the temptation to use secret or private police forces for political objectives appears obvious," Faircloth said.

Secretary of State Tom Adams and Comptroller Fred Dickinson also expressed doubts.

Both the governor and George R. Wackenhut, former FBI agent whose Miami-based security firm is one of the world's largest, have denied there is any plan for the operatives to assume actual police status, wield the power of arrest, search and seizure, or otherwise act in any capacity save investigative with results being furnished to regular law enforcement agencies.

Jack Ledden, a Kirk aide who handles liaison with Wackenhut, said last week a rejection of the trust-fund idea would not spike the governor's guns against organized crime.

If the funds were not approved, Ledden said, "we'll immediately go back to the original plan of having a corporate trust."

Bombing Hanoi Won't End War, Schlesinger Declares

CLEVELAND (AP) — "We could bomb North Vietnam back into the Stone Age and still the war would go on," former presidential aide Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., said here Monday night.

The two-time Pulitzer Prize winner told an audience of 1,000 persons at the Park Synagogue in Cleveland Heights that bombing of North Vietnam and the Administration's policy of escalation will not bring a victory for the United States.

Nor will it induce Hanoi to negotiate, he said.

Schlesinger said victory, or as he would prefer, the hope for peace talks, can be brought on only by a ground war fought on South Vietnamese territory.

A special aide to both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson from 1961 to 1964, Schlesinger won the Pulitzer Prize in 1966 for his "A Thousand Days," a study of the Kennedy Administration.

"Too many Americans consider the United States to be the savior of the world," said the historian. "As President Kennedy said, this is a Vietnamese war and the Vietnamese will ultimately win it or lost it."

He called the just-completed Guam conference "another process in the anointment of Generay Ky by the Administration."

President Johnson, Schlesinger said, has a "genuine wish," for settling the war. But he questioned why the Administration has "hardened" its peace terms, "unless it does not feel it is the proper time for negotiations."

Because of the nature of guerilla warfare, Schlesinger said, the United States cannot force Hanoi to the bargaining table by escalation.

"Escalation has not produced a better U.S. military position because for every 100,000 U.S. troops brought in, Hanoi need only recruit 10,000, he said.

"Escalation has not produced the victory our generals keep promising 'is right around the corner,' but rather only another stalemate."

City Employes' Union Discusses Wage Bids

The city employes' union, at a special meeting Monday night in the old IBOP Building, held a general discussion on wage increases and fringe benefits it has requested from Council.

Charles Masters, president, conducted the meeting of Local 677, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes. About 30 attended.

The local said its negotiating committee will confer with Council Wednesday night, while fire and police department spokesmen will meet with Council tonight.

vote. "I don't want to compromise my principles about following the letter of the law." He said he could not see how the board could go against the opinion of its legal counsel.

He referred to an opinion given the board by Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis, who, for the second straight year, advised the board it could not legally seat two members from the same township.

Bettis said the law relating to appointment of the county Board of Health by the Health Advisory Council provides that appointments are to be made with due regard to equal representation of all parts of the health district.

The county board has five members representing 18 townships and the nine villages — all the county except the four cities. The board is appointed, one member each year, by the Health Advisory Council comprised of township trustee chairmen and the nine mayors.

Murray was seated last year, although both he and Howard Cole, Lisbon attorney and former board president, resided in Center Towhship. Bettis had advised the board in advance that would not be legal in his opinion.

Board member Fred Johnson of Summitville was absent. Following the 2-1 vote, Bettis told the board, "You don't need a legal adviser if you are going to pay no attention to him. Mr. Murray is not legally seated on this board right now."

"If this is going to split the board," Bezdek stated, "I will bow out rather than have this happen. Even though I have been elected to serve, and I appreciate it, I officially resign."

The board accepted the resignation. Dr. Beaver thanked Bezdek for "taking us off the hook" and said the board will appoint a member to serve until the Advisory Health Council meets next March.

No one challenged Murray's membership. Dr. Beaver said that problem has been solved because Cole is no longer on the board.

Olin Evans, chairman of the Elkrun Township trustees, who nominated Bezdek at the advisory council meeting, attended to support the member - elect.

He protested when two of the visiting chairmen recommended names for the board's consideration in filling the vacancy. Evans said the advisory council's legal duty is to elect a board member on the first Monday in March and council members are out of line recommending persons for the Board of Health to consider.

Simms recommended Lester Hickman of the Bell School Rd., East Liverpool R. D. 1, St. Clair Township. Digman recommended Paul Tobin, an attorney, who resides at Monticello Pl., Liverpool Township.

The board elected Johnson president for a one-year term. Dr. Beaver was re-elected vice president.

The board has under study a food establishment inspection program. Dr. M. K. Singer, county health commissioner, said a state-conducted survey indicates a need for such a program in this county. The county has a restaurant inspection program, but none for food stores, meat markets, bakeries and similar establishments.

The next meeitng will be April 17 in the Courthouse Law Library.

Family Taken To Secret Site

NFO President Receives Threat

CHICAGO (AP) — Oren Lee Staley's wife and three children were whisked from their home to a secret location Monday night following a telephoned threat against Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization which is withholding milk in 25 states.

The six-day-old holding action aims at boosting by two cents a quart the price paid dairy farmers for milk.

"We're very confident that the available supply of milk is being cut into very rapidly and that the industry is doing everything possible to shift things around. And their supply is getting very thin," Staley said.

Police refused to say where they took Staley's wife and three children, ages 10 through 15, but the family was returned to its Whitesville, Mo., home before midnight.

Staley said only that the caller threatened the family "generally.' He said he was not worried because "I have a lot of local NFO neighbors and they will take care of the situation." Staley spoke from NFO headquarters in Corning, Iowa.

Meanwhile, arrests and incidents of violence multiplied, millions of gallons of milk were spilled and tempers rubbed raw. But effects were hard to gauge.

Staley claimed a two-cent-a-quart retail milk price increase in Omaha was an NFO victory, though retailers argued it was merely a market correction after a price war.

Some areas confessed lack of success. "It's not a heavy holding action," said NFO official Reuben Anders in Bucks County, Pa. "We realize we aren't going to dry up Doylestown or Philadelphia." He estimated, though, that the action had reduced the county's output by 10 per cent.

Western Pennsylvania Feeling Milk Holdout

The milk holdout was being felt by some dairies and cooperatives in Western Pennsylvania today as state police cruised rural areas on the alert for vandalism.

However, William Stevens, Sealtest general manager, said the organization supplies less than 10 per cent of the firm's milk.

The cooperative said its intake of milk from farmers was down 30 to 35 per cent as farmers dumped their milk in a 25-state campaign trying to force up prices for farmers.

A dairy in Sharon reported a 10 to 15 per cent drop in supplies but said it could withstand a 20 per cent loss without trouble.

The Dairymen's Cooperative Sales Association in Pittsburgh said members were shipping 80 to 90 per cent of normal supplies.

Meanwhile, state police were watching for trouble.

Some 2,300 gallons of milk were forcibly dumped in the latest reported incidents.

Bish's Dairy in New Bethlehem said eight carloads of men and women drained a company truck of 860 gallons on a Fairmount City farm.

State police said a milk tanker was stopped north of Punxsutawney and 1,500 gallons were drained.

Ohio Farmers Buying Up Milk From Stores

Ohio dairy farmers affiliated with the National Farmers Organization have turned, in spots, to buying up milk from retail stores in their drive to take the product off the market.

But more spectacular, and in some cases violent, incidents were mounting around the state as the Buckeye part of a 25-state NFO milk holding action moved into its second week today.

Some of the latest reports to law enforcement agencies:

Highland County — Kenneth Penwell of Washington Court House, driving a truck for hauler Martin B. Cull, said he was flagged down while making rounds near Leesburg Monday. Two men, one using threatening language, Penwell charged, forced him to dump about 1,000 gallons of milk. Two other drivers had reported bullets being fired into their trucks in the county on Sunday.

Franklin County — A spokesman in Columbus for Harmony Farms, second largest milk processor in central Ohio, claimed a truckload of milk delivered to the farms Sunday was adulterated with kerosene. An estimated 1,800 gallons was poured down the drain.

Mercer County — Ronal Albens, 29, of Anna, driving for Larger Bros. Dairy Co., Fort Loramie, complained that at a farm near St. Marys a producer on the pretext of selling milk joined with neighbors to blockade his truck in the farm driveway.

Putnam County — as promised in advance notice to news media — and reporters and TV cameramen were on hand in number—area farmers dumped several thousand gallons on the Jerome Turnwald farm west of Ottoville.

Adams County — Nine farmers near Winchester reported their bulk milk tanks stripped and the contents poured out. Two of the "victims" were striking NFO members, according to another victim, Mark Kendell.

In Seneca County, NFO members staged a buying action Monday like the one in Ashland the day before when NFO men bought all the milk they could find in major stores and distributed it to the needy. John Cochran, president of the Seneca County chapter said, participating farmers converged on a Tiffin supermarket, shelled out more than $200 and took away 250 gallons in the back of a pickup truck.

Still, effects of the holding action remained unclear, with many cooperatives and processors maintaining they still were getting near-normal supply.

Some dealers in the Cincinnati area said they were beginning to feel the pinch, but one spokesman said the Easter vacation for school children will alleviate the problem. He explained that district schools ordinarily use more than 50,000 half pints a day for lunches.

Controversial Concept

Gov. Kirk's Anti-Crime Plan Studied In Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The state Cabinet gets a chance today to bestow or deny its blessing on Gov. Claude Kirk's controversial concept of fighting crime with private detectives and funds.

How much of his program the Republican governor would unfold for his six Democratic Cabinet members was not certain. Aides earlier said he would answer questions and list contributors to his anticrime war chest, but Kirk said Monday the Cabinet would be asked only to approve the setting up of an audited state trust fund to handle receipts.

He proposed an initial $150,000 account, which he said would provide "just the mechanics of administration of the money."

The Cabinet has the power to reject the financing method but the governor could resort to other financing if it did.

The Cabinet session comes seven days before a special election to fill the entire reapportioned legislature. None of the Cabinet members, elected statewide, are involved but Republicans who elected their first governor in 94 years last November have an unprecedented number of campaigners for House and Senate.

A showdown on Kirk's crusade could be avoided if the Cabinet members choose. They could name a committee to study the proposal and that would delay action until after the election or provide a respite in which to work out acceptable conditions for establishment of the fund.

Kirk, 41, whose gubernatorial campaign bristled with promises to drive crime out of Florida, dropped a bombshell during his Jan. 3 inaugural speech by announcing he had engaged the Wackenhut Corp. investigative agency to wage war on crime and that he was inviting contributions from individuals and organizations. He said the agents' duties would include checking backgrounds of candidates for appointive office.

The unorthodox approach to crime fighting quickly drew cries of "gestapo" and "Wackencops" and the like from some critics..

Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth said the governor's hired agents, answerable only to him, raised serious legal questions and was "fraught with the possibility of danger."

"Both the risk and the temptation to use secret or private police forces for political objectives appears obvious," Faircloth said.

Secretary of State Tom Adams and Comptroller Fred Dickinson also expressed doubts.

Both the governor and George R. Wackenhut, former FBI agent whose Miami-based security firm is one of the world's largest, have denied there is any plan for the operatives to assume actual police status, wield the power of arrest, search and seizure, or otherwise act in any capacity save investigative with results being furnished to regular law enforcement agencies.

Jack Ledden, a Kirk aide who handles liaison with Wackenhut, said last week a rejection of the trust-fund idea would not spike the governor's guns against organized crime.

If the funds were not approved, Ledden said, "we'll immediately go back to the original plan of having a corporate trust."

Bombing Hanoi Won't End War, Schlesinger Declares

CLEVELAND (AP) — "We could bomb North Vietnam back into the Stone Age and still the war would go on," former presidential aide Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., said here Monday night.

The two-time Pulitzer Prize winner told an audience of 1,000 persons at the Park Synagogue in Cleveland Heights that bombing of North Vietnam and the Administration's policy of escalation will not bring a victory for the United States.

Nor will it induce Hanoi to negotiate, he said.

Schlesinger said victory, or as he would prefer, the hope for peace talks, can be brought on only by a ground war fought on South Vietnamese territory.

A special aide to both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson from 1961 to 1964, Schlesinger won the Pulitzer Prize in 1966 for his "A Thousand Days," a study of the Kennedy Administration.

"Too many Americans consider the United States to be the savior of the world," said the historian. "As President Kennedy said, this is a Vietnamese war and the Vietnamese will ultimately win it or lost it."

He called the just-completed Guam conference "another process in the anointment of Generay Ky by the Administration."

President Johnson, Schlesinger said, has a "genuine wish," for settling the war. But he questioned why the Administration has "hardened" its peace terms, "unless it does not feel it is the proper time for negotiations."

Because of the nature of guerilla warfare, Schlesinger said, the United States cannot force Hanoi to the bargaining table by escalation.

"Escalation has not produced a better U.S. military position because for every 100,000 U.S. troops brought in, Hanoi need only recruit 10,000, he said.

"Escalation has not produced the victory our generals keep promising 'is right around the corner,' but rather only another stalemate."

The city employes' union, at a special meeting Monday night in the old IBOP Building, held a general discussion on wage increases and fringe benefits it has requested from Council.

The local said its negotiating committee will confer with Council Wednesday night, while fire and police department spokesmen will meet with Council tonight.

vote. "I don't want to compromise my principles about following the letter of the law." He said he could not see how the board could go against the opinion of its legal counsel.

He referred to an opinion given the board by Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis, who, for the second straight year, advised the board it could not legally seat two members from the same township.

Bettis said the law relating to appointment of the county Board of Health by the Health Advisory Council provides that appointments are to be made with due regard to equal representation of all parts of the health district.

The county board has five members representing 18 townships and the nine villages — all the county except the four cities. The board is appointed, one member each year, by the Health Advisory Council comprised of township trustee chairmen and the nine mayors.

Murray was seated last year, although both he and Howard Cole, Lisbon attorney and former board president, resided in Center Towhship. Bettis had advised the board in advance that would not be legal in his opinion.

Board member Fred Johnson of Summitville was absent. Following the 2-1 vote, Bettis told the board, "You don't need a legal adviser if you are going to pay no attention to him. Mr. Murray is not legally seated on this board right now."

"If this is going to split the board," Bezdek stated, "I will bow out rather than have this happen. Even though I have been elected to serve, and I appreciate it, I officially resign."

The board accepted the resignation. Dr. Beaver thanked Bezdek for "taking us off the hook" and said the board will appoint a member to serve until the Advisory Health Council meets next March.

No one challenged Murray's membership. Dr. Beaver said that problem has been solved because Cole is no longer on the board.

Olin Evans, chairman of the Elkrun Township trustees, who nominated Bezdek at the advisory council meeting, attended to support the member - elect.

He protested when two of the visiting chairmen recommended names for the board's consideration in filling the vacancy. Evans said the advisory council's legal duty is to elect a board member on the first Monday in March and council members are out of line recommending persons for the Board of Health to consider.

Simms recommended Lester Hickman of the Bell School Rd., East Liverpool R. D. 1, St. Clair Township. Digman recommended Paul Tobin, an attorney, who resides at Monticello Pl., Liverpool Township.

The board elected Johnson president for a one-year term. Dr. Beaver was re-elected vice president.

The board has under study a food establishment inspection program. Dr. M. K. Singer, county health commissioner, said a state-conducted survey indicates a need for such a program in this county. The county has a restaurant inspection program, but none for food stores, meat markets, bakeries and similar establishments.

The next meeitng will be April 17 in the Courthouse Law Library.

Beaver Local Approves '67 Fund Action

An appropriation of $1,185,037 for 1967 in the Beaver Local School District was approved by the board of education during a special meeting Monday morning at the Public School.

The appropriation is some $15,000 over the $1,169,542 of 1966, due primarily to increases for salaries and in operating expenses.

The appropriation, with last year's figures in parentheses, includes: General Fund $962,651 ($925,788); Bond Retirement $107,119 ($106,901) and Cafeterias $115,265 ($116,852).

In other action, the board approved the district's participation in a cooperative vocational training area in the central and northern part of Columbiana.

Other districts in the program are Lisbon, Leetonia, Columbiana, Salem, East Palestine and United. Beaver Local originally had planned to join with Wellsville, East Liverpool and Stanton Local, but the plans did not develop.

The board approved teachers and directors for the annual summer school session June 12-July 21.

The session, under the Title One program, will include remedial, makeup and extra courses for students, kindergarten, driver training, music and other classes.

Supt. Roy Cashdollar reported the state had approved the recent one - day suspensions of classes at Rogers due to an electric failure and the Public School because of a pump failure.

The next meeting will be April 3.

Plans for the program were discussed with County Engineer John Ursu last week.

It includes 3.9 miles of blade mix and .4 mile of surface treatment, at an estimated cost of $12,000, and will require some 2,050 tons of slag.

The county provides equipment and labor for the summer road work, plus $100 a mile for materials.

The trustees plan to seek bids for an additional .8 of a mile road improvement for which property owners will pay.

A street opening permit was granted the Ohio Valley Gas Co. for the old Calcutta Rd. in Calcutta. A representative of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. discussed use of calcium chloride for roads.

Bills totaling $424 were paid. Groups from Summit Dr. and Longvue Heights were given information about the blacktop program.

It was reported slag is being spread at muddy sites on township roads.

The trustees last week discussed with the county commissioners the landslide on Grimms Bridge Rd. The commissioners plan to seek information about the legal responsibility for correcting the problem or any damage which might result.

Tax Commission Discusses Plans In Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH (AP) — You'll dig deeper for tax money if the state puts into effect recommendations of a special tax study commission appointed by the governor.

What's needed, the commission said Monday, is an additional $200 million to $250 million for fiscal 1967-68.

Where would it come from?

The commission discussed several programs to produce the money, including new taxes and the revision of existing tax methods.

Among them were an increase in the 5 per cent sales tax, elimination of certain tax exemptions and possibly a graduated state income tax, which would require constitutional revision.

The 12 — member, bipartisan commission includes representatives of labor and business.

Its chairman, Dr. David H. Kurtzman, acting chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, said the panel will present its recommendations to Gov. Shafer later this month. In the meantime, the commission plans to meet once more.

Kurtzman was asked what program seemed most likely to be recommended.

"They are all possible," he replied. "What is probable, I cannot say."

New Proposals Are Offered For Ohio Trade Site

MANILA (AP)—An Ohio version of Chicago's Merchandise Mart or New Orleans' International Trade Center may be in the offing, affirms a leader of the Buckeye trade mission to the Far East.

Fred P. Neuenschwander, Ohio Development Department director, said in an interview here Monday that a site near one of the state universities probably would be chosen for the trade center. Gov. James A. Rhodes initially announced tentative plans for such a center while in Japan with the mission.

Back in Columbus, Ohio, asked about Neuenschwander's comment, Rhodes' executive assistant John McElroy said two trade centers are possible eventually.

Such a center, the Development Department added, would operate in conjunction with a university in the manner a transportation research center will be developed to work with Ohio State University.

It would provide Ohio manufacturers and distributors a showplace for their products, keeping them on centralized view for prospective foreign purchasers.

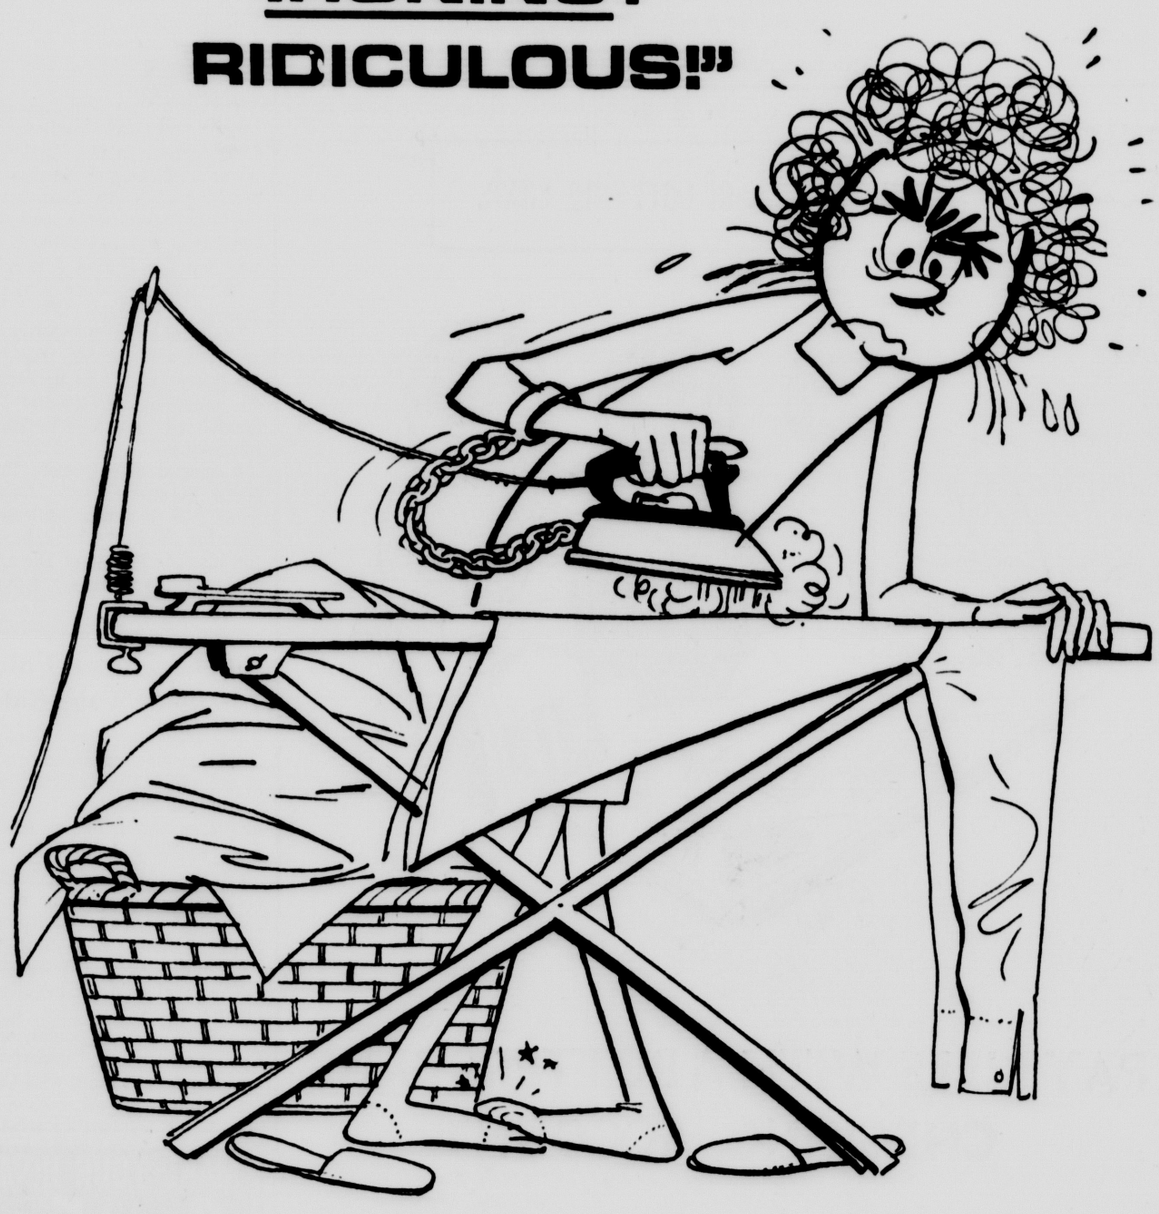
"A CLOTHES DRYER THAT DOES MY IRONING? RIDICULOUS!"



Show us a lady who doubts a modern Gas dryer can do her ironing, and we'll show you a lady who wonders why everyone's so excited about the new Permanent Press clothing.

Oh, she's tried Permanent Press. She's washed them, hung them out to dry—and gotten clothesline creases, clothespin puckers and droopy knees that still need plenty of hand ironing.

Pity.

Somebody should tell her that the wonderful new Permanent Press clothing is made to be dried in an automatic dryer. Most Permanent Press labels say the garments absolutely must have gentle tumble-action to pop out the wrinkles and snap back the creases.

She should know that a Gas dryer can do most of her ironing for her. An appropriation of $1,185,037 for 1967 in the Beaver Local School District was approved by the board of education during a special meeting Monday morning at the Public School.

New Proposals Are Offered For Ohio Trade Site

MANILA (AP)—An Ohio version of Chicago's Merchandise Mart or New Orleans' International Trade Center may be in the offing, affirms a leader of the Buckeye trade mission to the Far East.

Fred P. Neuenschwander, Ohio Development Department director, said in an interview here Monday that a site near one of the state universities probably would be chosen for the trade center. Gov. James A. Rhodes initially announced tentative plans for such a center while in Japan with the mission.

Back in Columbus, Ohio, asked about Neuenschwander's comment, Rhodes' executive assistant John McElroy said two trade centers are possible eventually.

Such a center, the Development Department added, would operate in conjunction with a university in the manner a transportation research center will be developed to work with Ohio State University.

It would provide Ohio manufacturers and distributors a showplace for their products, keeping them on centralized view for prospective foreign purchasers.

Tax Commission Discusses Plans In Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH (AP) — You'll dig deeper for tax money if the state puts into effect recommendations of a special tax study commission appointed by the governor.

What's needed, the commission said Monday, is an additional $200 million to $250 million for fiscal 1967-68.

Where would it come from?

The commission discussed several programs to produce the money, including new taxes and the revision of existing tax methods.

Among them were an increase in the 5 per cent sales tax, elimination of certain tax exemptions and possibly a graduated state income tax, which would require constitutional revision.

The 12 — member, bipartisan commission includes representatives of labor and business.

Its chairman, Dr. David H. Kurtzman, acting chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, said the panel will present its recommendations to Gov. Shafer later this month. In the meantime, the commission plans to meet once more.

Kurtzman was asked what program seemed most likely to be recommended.

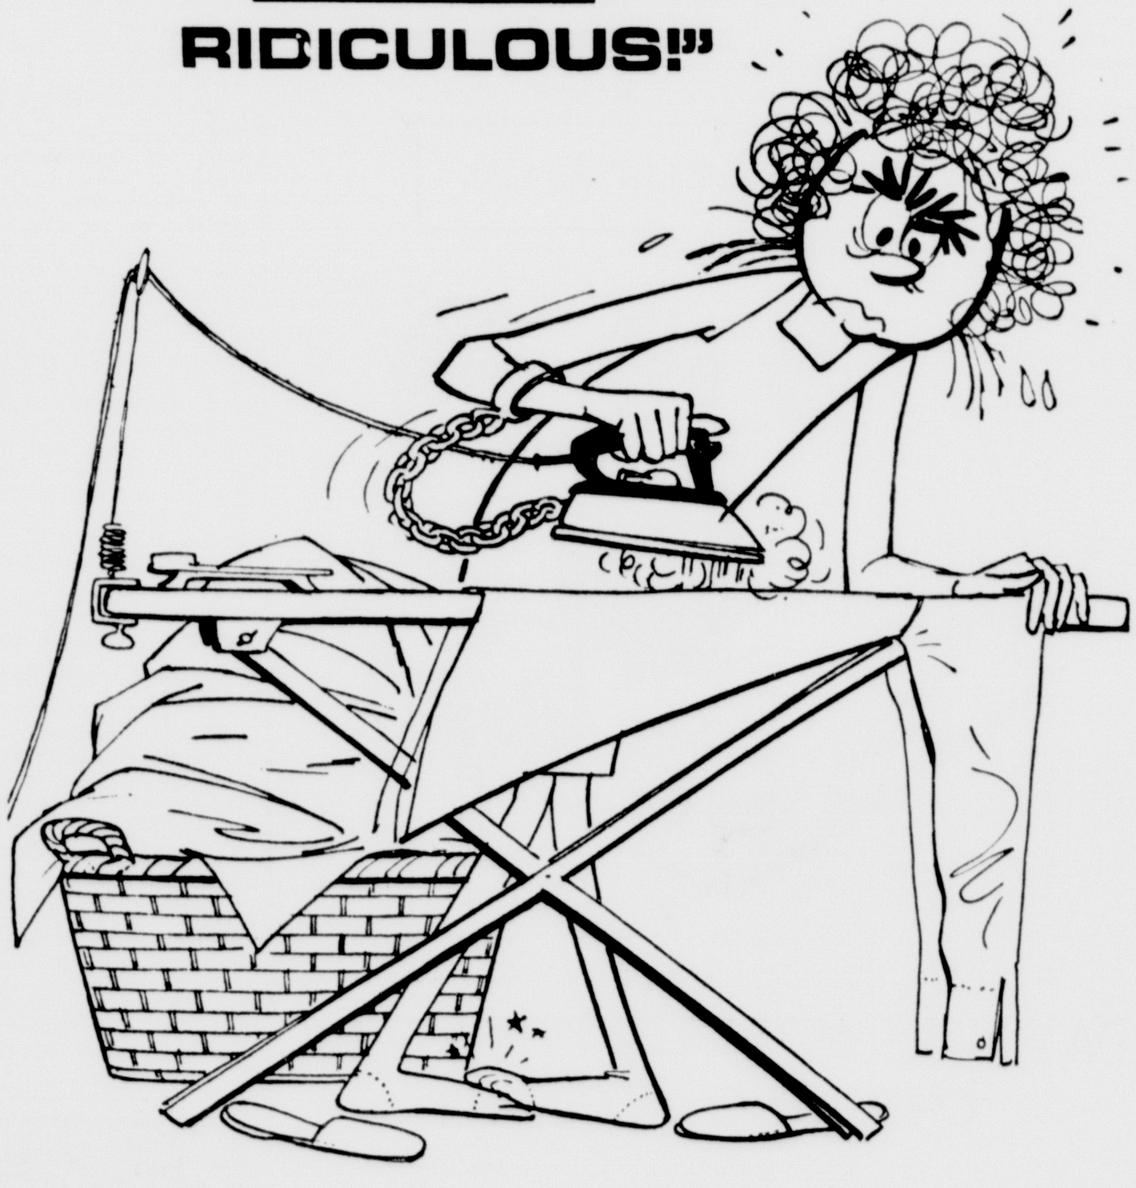
"A CLOTHES DRYER THAT DOES MY IRONING? RIDICULOUS!"



Show us a lady who doubts a modern Gas dryer can do her ironing, and we'll show you a lady who wonders why everyone's so excited about the new Permanent Press clothing.

Oh, she's tried Permanent Press. She's washed them, hung them out to dry—and gotten clothesline creases, clothespin puckers and droopy knees that still need plenty of hand ironing.

Pity.

Somebody should tell her that the wonderful new Permanent Press clothing is made to be dried in an automatic dryer. Most Permanent Press labels say the garments absolutely must have gentle tumble-action to pop out the wrinkles and snap back the creases.

She should know that a Gas dryer can do most of her ironing for her. Slacks, shirts, dresses, children's clothes, sheets, pillowcases, stretch clothes, knits and dozens of other Permanent Press miracles are at her store just waiting for her to see the light. Soon she'll be able to buy everything washable in Permanent Press and retire her iron to the attic to keep the washboard company.

And somebody should let her know that penny-a-load gas dryers dry everything—Permanent Press or not—for about one-fifth what it costs to run an electric dryer.

Poor lady. Somebody just has to tell her.

Chamber's Request

Council To Study Link In Freeway

Council promised a Chamber of Commerce committee Monday night its planning committee will study the possibility of updating a 1955 engineering report with a view to proceeding with the next link in the city Freeway — from W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. eastward to State St. in East End.

The suggestion for updating the arterial highway survey filed about 12 years ago by the firm of Michael Baker Jr. of Rochester was presented by the Chamber's highway committee, with Francis H. Lang, chairman, as spokesman.

BRINGING the Baker report up to date would be the first step in moving ahead with the four-lane highway, which eventually will extend to the state line, Lang explained. The first segment "has been a great benefit to East Liverpool," he added.

Even if work began immediately, four to five years might elapse before the roadway would be built, the attorney added.

Engineer George Bloomgren recalled that Council passed a resolution in 1964 for updating of the engineering report, but funds never have been made available. Revising the Baker report to meet present day conditions probably would cost $22,000, with the possibility Council might provide $11,000 in 1967 and $11,000 in 1968, he said.

Council indicated the proposal will be referred to its planning committee. Lang was accompanied by Lawrence Sixt, Gordon E. Starkey, Harry Y. George and E. R. Chandler, executive manager of the Chamber.

COUNCIL referred to the street committee, Safety-Service Director Robert Vodrey and Bloomgren a request from Lee Adkins, president of the Adkins Lumber & Supply Co., for utilization of about five feet of a 10-foot sidewalk area on Globe St. for a structure to cut down on noises emanating from compressers and exhaust fans at the new Thorne's Valu King Store on Pennsylvania Ave.

Adkins said he has been approached to build a structure to relieve the noises. He said he proposes to build two staggered walls of perforated concrete block. Since there is not enough available room on the market property, he asked permission to build the walls on a 24-foot-long space dedicated for sidewalks.

Three representatives of Little League Football appeared before Council in a caucus session asking an appropriation that would permit the City Park Commission to build one or more new football fields at the Colt baseball field in Bloomfield. The league has six teams of 40 boys each ranging in age from 9 to 13, Council was told by Carl Swogger, the spokesman.

The league needs fields both for practice and for its games, he said. Swogger was accompanied by Martin Christen and Mike Schwartz.

VODREY TOLD Council he has compiled a list of proposed traffic regulations given to Council in the last 18 months. He suggested they be enacted into legislation. Councilman Norman Bucher, head of the ordinance committee, said they already have been given to Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

Vodrey also asked if Council has reached a decision on an unnamed firm's request to lease the former 2nd St. Playground property. Council did not reply directly, but Councilman Harold Maylone asked if the firm plans to erect any buildings on the site. Vodrey said he understands it would bury two tanks for storage of oil or gas and also would erect a small office building.

Mrs. Donna R. Wilson asked Council to consider raising the pay of Dog Warden Harold Flowers and assigning him extra work hours. She said she understands he does not work full time at present "but there are plenty of dogs for him to take care of."

Maylone said he has received complaints of foul language used by boys who stand at St. Clair Ave. near the Horn Switch each day to hitchike rides home from school. He said he also has received complaints of the boys spitting on windows of nearby stores.

Maylone said he hopes parents of the boys "will exercise a little control" over the youths so that it will not be necessary for police to step in to the situation.

Councilman Frank Duffy was excused. The meeting opened with invocation by Dr. A. K. Davison of the First United Presbyterian Church.

Five Of County's Townships To Handle Own Road Work

LISBON — Five of Columbiana County's 18 townships will handle their own road repair programs the next three years —1967-69.

Trustees of Butler, Center, Fairfield, Hanover and Knox townships last week elected to accept a new cash aid program offered by the county commissioners and County Engineer John Ursu.

The five townships will receive from the engineer's budget each year $125 per mile of township road and free culvert subject to Ursu's approval as to the size and location of the pipe.

Trustees can use the $125 per mile for any kind of road work — widening, building base, resurfacing or patching — but not for salaries or purchasing equipment.

In accepting the cash aid program, the townships agreed to continue it for three years.

Thirteen townships decided to continue with the program the county has offered for years: $100 per mile for bituminous work, with the county engineer furnishing county equipment for the projects. This system limits the trustees to resurfacing and patching.

Contracts for the summer bituminous program will be let in May and work should begin the latter half of the month, Ursu said.

He said he was hopeful, before the road talks with trustees, that more would choose the new cash aid program so they could begin to build their roads from the bottom up.

Townships on the new aid plan will be able to rent county equipment if it is available when needed, Ursu said.

Knox, with 65 miles of township roads, will receive approximately $8,125 under the new program; Center, 52 miles, $6,500; Butler, 55 miles $6,875; Hanover 56 miles, $7000, and Fairfield, 51 miles, $6375.

Pittsburgh Playhouse Director Is Ousted

As Hancock predicted about a week ago, the Playhouse board terminated Monday his contract which was to run until May 31.

No successor was named.

Hancock and some board members had been feuding in the wake of poor attendance at the Playhouse and financial troubles.

"This action will provide smoother continuity of Playhouse activities and give Mr. Hancock a chance to plan his future career,' the board said.

Donald Skidmore Resigns Post As Boy Scout Aide

Donald F. Skidmore has resigned as a commissioner of the Cherokee District, Columbiana Council, Boy Scouts of America, it was announced by District Chairman William T. Pomeroy Jr. following a district committee meeting at the Ohio Power Co.

The job of the district commissioner is to provide well - trained leaders to assist the various Scouting units in carrying out the program, to aid and expedite the charter registrations of the units and offer guidance to the Council on the need for new units. Skidmore has had 33 units to work with in the past year, Pomeroy said.

Skidmore has been in Scouting as a leader for five years. He first served as assistant Cubmaster of Pack 12 of the Trinity Presbyterian Church. When his son went into the Troop 12, he was recruited to be a neighborhood commissioner and became district commissioner 2½ years ago.

In addition to Scouting, he is active in other organizations. He is president of the City Recreational Council, secretary of the Rescue Mission, president of the Homebuilders Class of the First Nazarene Church and is a member of the Executive Committee of the McKinley School PTA. He has a boy in Cub Pack 12 and a son in Troop 12. Mrs. Skidmore serves as a den mother.

Council Rejects Motion

St. Clair Work Deferred Pending Study Of Money

Council turned down 4-2, Monday night a motion to put machinery in motion immediately for resurfacing of St. Clair Ave. between 6th St. and Princeton Ave., but three of the four who dissented said they need additional time to check on the availability of funds.

The motion was proposed by Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson and seconded by Councilman James Lowe. It called upon Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey to instruct Engineer George S. Bloomgren to proceed "immediately" on preparation of plans for the improvement "with the assurance the city will sell $55,000 in bonds to pay for the work."

After a brief discussion, Councilmen Norman Bucher, Harold Maylone, Floyd Murray and Robert W. Sample voted against the motion, with Mrs. Wilson and Lowe supporting it.

Mrs. Wilson broached the project by recalling the "glaring headlines" that greeted a joint administration - Council decision in December to proceed with various street and sewer programs in 1967, including the St. Clair Ave. improvement.

Now it appears that the project may be shelved when the annual appropriation is drawn up, Mrs. Wilson said.

"There may be enough money to surface the River Rd., but my concern is St. Clair," she said. "It cries for attention. If it's to be undertaken as a summer project, we can't wait any longer."

She added that the Ohio Valley Gas Co. is prepared to spend $100,000 to install a new main under St. Clair Ave. before the city goes ahead with the improvement.

Seconding the motion, Lowe remarked that county commissioners already have started plans to improve St. Clair from the end of the new three-lane stretch to Route 170 at Calcutta.

"I feel it is only proper that we improve the lower stretch," he said.

Murray declared that the city's bonding limit now stands at $50,000. He said the city must pay a $30,000 judgment to a woman injured in a fall on West End steps. That would leave only $20,000 in borrowing power, he said.

But Mrs. Wilson replied that a check with Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper showed that the city may borrow a total of $653,526 —based on 1½ per cent of its property valuation. Outstanding debt now totals $565,919, she said.

Murray said he could not vote on the motion without checking on the accuracy of the figures with City Auditor L. J. Zollinger.

Bucher asked Mrs. Wilson if she contemplated that St. Clair property owners would help pay the cost. She replied that it would be "a city project."

Sample said he could not vote in favor of the motion until the city's financial outlook is determined for 1967. Maylone echoed his sentiment.

Then the vote was taken on the motion, bringing its defeat.

Chamber's Request

Council To Study Link In Freeway

Council promised a Chamber of Commerce committee Monday night its planning committee will study the possibility of updating a 1955 engineering report with a view to proceeding with the next link in the city Freeway — from W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. eastward to State St. in East End.

The suggestion for updating the arterial highway survey filed about 12 years ago by the firm of Michael Baker Jr. of Rochester was presented by the Chamber's highway committee, with Francis H. Lang, chairman, as spokesman.

BRINGING the Baker report up to date would be the first step in moving ahead with the four-lane highway, which eventually will extend to the state line, Lang explained. The first segment "has been a great benefit to East Liverpool," he added.

Even if work began immediately, four to five years might elapse before the roadway would be built, the attorney added.

Engineer George Bloomgren recalled that Council passed a resolution in 1964 for updating of the engineering report, but funds never have been made available. Revising the Baker report to meet present day conditions probably would cost $22,000, with the possibility Council might provide $11,000 in 1967 and $11,000 in 1968, he said.

Council indicated the proposal will be referred to its planning committee. Lang was accompanied by Lawrence Sixt, Gordon E. Starkey, Harry Y. George and E. R. Chandler, executive manager of the Chamber.

COUNCIL referred to the street committee, Safety-Service Director Robert Vodrey and Bloomgren a request from Lee Adkins, president of the Adkins Lumber & Supply Co., for utilization of about five feet of a 10-foot sidewalk area on Globe St. for a structure to cut down on noises emanating from compressers and exhaust fans at the new Thorne's Valu King Store on Pennsylvania Ave.

Adkins said he has been approached to build a structure to relieve the noises. He said he proposes to build two staggered walls of perforated concrete block. Since there is not enough available room on the market property, he asked permission to build the walls on a 24-foot-long space dedicated for sidewalks.

Three representatives of Little League Football appeared before Council in a caucus session asking an appropriation that would permit the City Park Commission to build one or more new football fields at the Colt baseball field in Bloomfield. The league has six teams of 40 boys each ranging in age from 9 to 13, Council was told by Carl Swogger, the spokesman.

The league needs fields both for practice and for its games, he said. Swogger was accompanied by Martin Christen and Mike Schwartz.

VODREY TOLD Council he has compiled a list of proposed traffic regulations given to Council in the last 18 months. He suggested they be enacted into legislation. Councilman Norman Bucher, head of the ordinance committee, said they already have been given to Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

Vodrey also asked if Council has reached a decision on an unnamed firm's request to lease the former 2nd St. Playground property. Council did not reply directly, but Councilman Harold Maylone asked if the firm plans to erect any buildings on the site. Vodrey said he understands it would bury two tanks for storage of oil or gas and also would erect a small office building.

Mrs. Donna R. Wilson asked Council to consider raising the pay of Dog Warden Harold Flowers and assigning him extra work hours. She said she understands he does not work full time at present "but there are plenty of dogs for him to take care of."

Maylone said he has received complaints of foul language used by boys who stand at St. Clair Ave. near the Horn Switch each day to hitchike rides home from school. He said he also has received complaints of the boys spitting on windows of nearby stores.

Maylone said he hopes parents of the boys "will exercise a little control" over the youths so that it will not be necessary for police to step in to the situation.

Councilman Frank Duffy was excused. The meeting opened with invocation by Dr. A. K. Davison of the First United Presbyterian Church.

Five Of County's Townships To Handle Own Road Work

LISBON — Five of Columbiana County's 18 townships will handle their own road repair programs the next three years —1967-69.

Trustees of Butler, Center, Fairfield, Hanover and Knox townships last week elected to accept a new cash aid program offered by the county commissioners and County Engineer John Ursu.

The five townships will receive from the engineer's budget each year $125 per mile of township road and free culvert subject to Ursu's approval as to the size and location of the pipe.

Trustees can use the $125 per mile for any kind of road work — widening, building base, resurfacing or patching — but not for salaries or purchasing equipment.

In accepting the cash aid program, the townships agreed to continue it for three years.

Thirteen townships decided to continue with the program the county has offered for years: $100 per mile for bituminous work, with the county engineer furnishing county equipment for the projects. This system limits the trustees to resurfacing and patching.

Contracts for the summer bituminous program will be let in May and work should begin the latter half of the month, Ursu said.

He said he was hopeful, before the road talks with trustees, that more would choose the new cash aid program so they could begin to build their roads from the bottom up.

Townships on the new aid plan will be able to rent county equipment if it is available when needed, Ursu said.

Knox, with 65 miles of township roads, will receive approximately $8,125 under the new program; Center, 52 miles, $6,500; Butler, 55 miles $6,875; Hanover 56 miles, $7000, and Fairfield, 51 miles, $6375.

Pittsburgh Playhouse Director Is Ousted

As Hancock predicted about a week ago, the Playhouse board terminated Monday his contract which was to run until May 31.

No successor was named.

Hancock and some board members had been feuding in the wake of poor attendance at the Playhouse and financial troubles.

"This action will provide smoother continuity of Playhouse activities and give Mr. Hancock a chance to plan his future career,' the board said.

Donald Skidmore Resigns Post As Boy Scout Aide

Donald F. Skidmore has resigned as a commissioner of the Cherokee District, Columbiana Council, Boy Scouts of America, it was announced by District Chairman William T. Pomeroy Jr. following a district committee meeting at the Ohio Power Co.

The job of the district commissioner is to provide well - trained leaders to assist the various Scouting units in carrying out the program, to aid and expedite the charter registrations of the units and offer guidance to the Council on the need for new units. Skidmore has had 33 units to work with in the past year, Pomeroy said.

Skidmore has been in Scouting as a leader for five years. He first served as assistant Cubmaster of Pack 12 of the Trinity Presbyterian Church. When his son went into the Troop 12, he was recruited to be a neighborhood commissioner and became district commissioner 2½ years ago.

In addition to Scouting, he is active in other organizations. He is president of the City Recreational Council, secretary of the Rescue Mission, president of the Homebuilders Class of the First Nazarene Church and is a member of the Executive Committee of the McKinley School PTA. He has a boy in Cub Pack 12 and a son in Troop 12. Mrs. Skidmore serves as a den mother.

Council Rejects Motion

St. Clair Work Deferred Pending Study Of Money

Council turned down 4-2, Monday night a motion to put machinery in motion immediately for resurfacing of St. Clair Ave. between 6th St. and Princeton Ave., but three of the four who dissented said they need additional time to check on the availability of funds.

The motion was proposed by Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson and seconded by Councilman James Lowe. It called upon Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey to instruct Engineer George S. Bloomgren to proceed "immediately" on preparation of plans for the improvement "with the assurance the city will sell $55,000 in bonds to pay for the work."

After a brief discussion, Councilmen Norman Bucher, Harold Maylone, Floyd Murray and Robert W. Sample voted against the motion, with Mrs. Wilson and Lowe supporting it.

Mrs. Wilson broached the project by recalling the "glaring headlines" that greeted a joint administration - Council decision in December to proceed with various street and sewer programs in 1967, including the St. Clair Ave. improvement.

Now it appears that the project may be shelved when the annual appropriation is drawn up, Mrs. Wilson said.

"There may be enough money to surface the River Rd., but my concern is St. Clair," she said. "It cries for attention. If it's to be undertaken as a summer project, we can't wait any longer."

She added that the Ohio Valley Gas Co. is prepared to spend $100,000 to install a new main under St. Clair Ave. before the city goes ahead with the improvement.

Seconding the motion, Lowe remarked that county commissioners already have started plans to improve St. Clair from the end of the new three-lane stretch to Route 170 at Calcutta.

"I feel it is only proper that we improve the lower stretch," he said.

Murray declared that the city's bonding limit now stands at $50,000. He said the city must pay a $30,000 judgment to a woman injured in a fall on West End steps. That would leave only $20,000 in borrowing power, he said.

But Mrs. Wilson replied that a check with Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper showed that the city may borrow a total of $653,526 —based on 1½ per cent of its property valuation. Outstanding debt now totals $565,919, she said.

Murray said he could not vote on the motion without checking on the accuracy of the figures with City Auditor L. J. Zollinger.

Bucher asked Mrs. Wilson if she contemplated that St. Clair property owners would help pay the cost. She replied that it would be "a city project."

Sample said he could not vote in favor of the motion until the city's financial outlook is determined for 1967. Maylone echoed his sentiment.

Then the vote was taken on the motion, bringing its defeat.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I recall with pleasure the people who wrote to you about how they sang at their own weddings. And then a few weeks later another group wrote to say those people had to be nuts, along with their ministers who allowed such goings on.

I discussed both columns with my friends and some were firmly convinced that you had made up all the letters because people couldn't be that crazy.

It was with delight that I showed these Doubting Thomases the front page of this morning's newspaper. It seems that in San Francisco the wedding of weddings took place. The bride wore black, the maid of honor appeared in the nude and draped herself over the altar. The "worst man" was a beatnik poet.

The groom said his previous two weddings had been Christian ceremonies and both ended in divorce, so now he was trying the heathen route.

If anyone ever accuses you of making up letters please tell them about this wedding. — OBSERVER OF THE PASSING SCENE.

DEAR OBSERVER: A person would have to be psychotic to make up all the letters that appear in this space. If I couldn't produce a legitimate column out of 350,000 letters a year, I'd quit.

Roughing It

DEAR ANN LANDERS: An Orlando mother wrote to you recently and complained because the high school sent out a call for mothers to supervise students during lunch hour. The mother was indignant — said she thought it was nervy of the school to ask mothers to do the teachers' work.

I am a teacher whose lunch hour must be spent watching children, and it is a mess. I eat lunch on foot (the other teachers do the same). We supervise 180 students.

Our day begins at 8:15 a.m. and we go straight through to 3:45 p.m. without a five-minute break to powder our noses. By midday we are exhausted, and an exhausted teacher cannot give her students her best.

I agree with the Orlando woman that mothers should not be called on to work as volunteers. Supervising students is a real job and trained personnel should be employed by the school system to do this work. —WEST VIRGINIA TEACHER.

DEAR VIRGINIA: Teachers from every one of the 50 states wrote to express their views on this subject. Almost every person who wrote suggested this solution. In my opinion, it is the most logical and the fairest way to resolve the problem.

Language Barrier

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15. My brother is 13. The problem is our parents. They were born in a foreign country and, although they can speak English, they prefer their native language, even in public.

This is embarrassing. We have begged them please to talk English because everyone looks at us funny.

When we use English at home they get mad and say we get enough English with our friends. They insist that we talk in the foreign language. AMERICANS.

DEAR AMERICANS: If your tongue I see no cause for criticism — whether at home or in public.

You will be happy in years to come that you are able to speak fluently in a second language. Practice! Practice! Practice! You won't regret it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self - addressed, stamped envelope.

East End Man Loses Permit

A 45-year-old East End man was fined $20 and costs and given a 15-day suspension of his operator's permit when he pleaded guilty today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to a charge of speeding 80 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd.

The patrol reported Brandon's car and another auto "were running about side by side at 70 miles an hour, with the defendant in the passing lane." When Brandon accelerated to pass, the other motorist also speeded up and the two exceeded an 80-mile pace, the patrol said.

"That's a good way to kill yourself," the judge commented as he imposed sentence.

Meanwhile, the court granted a continuance until April 4 in a hearing for Gerald Anthony Choina, 22, of 406 12th St., Wellsville, charged with driving 70 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on Route 7.

Districts To Share

County Board May Hire Vocational Coordinator

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Education will employ a vocational program coordinator if districts sharing in the program contribute to part of the salary.

The County Board acted Monday night after hearing Supt. Joe W. Driscoll of Lisbon outline the cooperative program now under way in Lisbon, United, Leetonia, Columbiana, Crestview and East Palestine high schools.

LISBON offers welding, and plans to offer vocational home economics and cooperative office education. United has vocational agriculture and home ec; Leetonia, home ec, office education and cooperative training in the trades; Columbiana, distributive education — retail selling, and Crestview, home ec and occupational work experience. East Palestine is planning to offer courses next year.

Some students in these schools also take advantage of the vocation agriculture courses offered by Salem school system, Driscoll said.

He said there is a need for a vocational coordinator and this could be the first step toward a joint vocational high school. Lisbon Board of Education last week gave tentative approval of the plan providing its share in the $600-$700 range.

None of the districts can legally hire a coordinator, but the county board can and the state will pay $4,500 toward his salary, according to J. M. McBride, superintendent of county schools.

THE BOARD authorized McBride to make arrangements to employ a coordinator whose services will be available to the four local districts — United, Fairfield - Waterford (Crestview), Beaver and Southern; Lisbon, Leetonia and Columbiana villages, East Palestine, and also Wellsville, East Liverpool and Salem if they wish to participate.

McBride announced that Stayner F. Brighton, new executive secretary of the Ohio Education Association, will be guest speaker for the County Education Association's spring banquet at 6:30 p. m. April 18. The event will be held in the cafeteria of United's new high school addition which opened for classes today.

McBride also reported on the procedure recommended by O. E. A. for removal of incompetent teachers, the receipt of a dozen bids on a fringe benefit medical - surgical insurance policy for county school employes, and the results of an investigation into cooperative buying.

McBride said one of the concrete results of the proposed insurance is that Blue Cross has agreed to base its rates to teachers on the county as a whole rather than on the individual districts.

THE COMMITTEE investigating cooperative purchasing found little to be gained except in the purchase of mimeograph paper. Some schools have been paying $1.07 per ream compared to the lowest bid of 84 cents under the cooperative plan. Beaver Local, however, has been buying this paper at 77 cents so it will handle orders for the other schools, McBride said.

Fred Lohman of Salineville, attendance officer, reported he traveled 639 miles in February, making 23 home calls and 27 school calls.

The board authorized McBride to attend a meeting of the Ohio County Superintendent's Association March 30-31 at Ironton.

President Allan G. Chamberlin of Leetonia R. D. 2 announced that a combined meeting of the county and local boards will be held at 8 p. m. Monday in Beaver Local Public School.

He named the following committee to work on the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1: Donald Elliott of Rogers and Donald Rupert of New Waterford, board members; Hubert Lawrence, county system psychologist; Pete Marra, county high school supervisor, and Mrs. June Ingraham, county office secretary.

The board met for the first time in its new quarters in the old post office building on the Square. Members authorized McBride to ask the county commissioners to pay for the new rugs in the meeting room.

DEAR HELOISE: I do my laundry about three times a week. I have tried every brand of soap on the market! I have used bleaches, "fluffy stuff" and all of the other products.

My laundry is a mess. It's gray, and soiled looking. Can you help me? HOUSEWIFE.

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: Not being in your home, I cannot test for you, but I will try to tell you how to test it yourself:

The first thing to do is go and look at the thermostat on your hot water heater. Be sure it is set at least 140 to 145 degrees. Hot water is a necessity for getting clothes clean when using these type detergents.

Second, there is a possibility you will see that you are supposed to have just so many gallons of water in each machine-load of laundry.

Your dial may need adjusting or your water pressure may be too low.

One machine we checked was supposed to use nine gallons of water and it only got seven because the pressure was too low. We actually discovered this by measuring the water in some buckets as it came out the end of the drain hose. In this case, the lack of water supply was why the clothes were not white.

Another machine which we tested just needed adjusting. I suggest you get a qualified repairman to do this.

And, dear little launderers, don't ever overload your machine. Your manual will tell you how many pounds your model holds.

If you have no scale, a good rule of thumb is "about one pillowcase full." It's far better to underload than overload. Gets the clothes cleaner. HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: When I wash my walls, I take all the electric switch plates off and put them in a pail of ammonia water.

I let them soak a while, then scrub the little crevices clean with an old brush.

DEAR HELOISE: If your purse tears on the inside next to the zipper, sew it back and forth with dental floss.

It doesn't show and the strong dental floss will give you many more months use of the purse. ROSE STEWART.

DEAR HELOISE: Our baby was a winter nursing baby.

I kept the heating pad beside his crib and when I took him up for a night feeding, I turned the pad on warm and laid it in his bed.

When I put him back in his little crib I removed the heating pad. Because the bed was so nice and warm he settled down more quickly than he used to in a cold bed. MRS. WEVRACH.

Isn't this a darling idea to get those little angels warm on cold nights after you take 'em out of bed? HELOISE.

LETTER OF TRUTH

DEAR HELOISE: No one sees another's faults until they are called to our attention. I never noticed my next door neighbor was bowlegged until another neighbor told me. Nor was I aware that an associate talked gruffly until it was pointed out by another.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I recall with pleasure the people who wrote to you about how they sang at their own weddings. And then a few weeks later another group wrote to say those people had to be nuts, along with their ministers who allowed such goings on.

I discussed both columns with my friends and some were firmly convinced that you had made up all the letters because people couldn't be that crazy.

It was with delight that I showed these Doubting Thomases the front page of this morning's newspaper. It seems that in San Francisco the wedding of weddings took place. The bride wore black, the maid of honor appeared in the nude and draped herself over the altar. The "worst man" was a beatnik poet.

The groom said his previous two weddings had been Christian ceremonies and both ended in divorce, so now he was trying the heathen route.

If anyone ever accuses you of making up letters please tell them about this wedding. — OBSERVER OF THE PASSING SCENE.

DEAR OBSERVER: A person would have to be psychotic to make up all the letters that appear in this space. If I couldn't produce a legitimate column out of 350,000 letters a year, I'd quit.

Roughing It

DEAR ANN LANDERS: An Orlando mother wrote to you recently and complained because the high school sent out a call for mothers to supervise students during lunch hour. The mother was indignant — said she thought it was nervy of the school to ask mothers to do the teachers' work.

I am a teacher whose lunch hour must be spent watching children, and it is a mess. I eat lunch on foot (the other teachers do the same). We supervise 180 students.

Our day begins at 8:15 a.m. and we go straight through to 3:45 p.m. without a five-minute break to powder our noses. By midday we are exhausted, and an exhausted teacher cannot give her students her best.

I agree with the Orlando woman that mothers should not be called on to work as volunteers. Supervising students is a real job and trained personnel should be employed by the school system to do this work. —WEST VIRGINIA TEACHER.

DEAR VIRGINIA: Teachers from every one of the 50 states wrote to express their views on this subject. Almost every person who wrote suggested this solution. In my opinion, it is the most logical and the fairest way to resolve the problem.

Language Barrier

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15. My brother is 13. The problem is our parents. They were born in a foreign country and, although they can speak English, they prefer their native language, even in public.

This is embarrassing. We have begged them please to talk Engish because everyone looks at us funny.

When we use English at home they get mad and say we get enough English with our friends. They insist that we talk in the foreign language. AMERICANS.

DEAR AMERICANS: If your tongue I see no cause for criticism — whether at home or in public.

You will be happy in years to come that you are able to speak fluently in a second language. Practice! Practice! Practice! You won't regret it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a self - addressed, stamped envelope.

East End Man Loses Permit

A 45-year-old East End man was fined $20 and costs and given a 15-day suspension of his operator's permit when he pleaded guilty today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to a charge of speeding 80 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd.

Frederick Brandon of 2045 Ohio Ave. was cited Sunday at 1:45 p. m. by the State Highway Patrol.

The patrol reported Brandon's car and another auto "were running about side by side at 70 miles an hour, with the defendant in the passing lane." When Brandon accelerated to pass, the other motorist also speeded up and the two exceeded an 80-mile pace, the patrol said.

"That's a good way to kill yourself," the judge commented as he imposed sentence.

Meanwhile, the court granted a continuance until April 4 in a hearing for Gerald Anthony Choina, 22, of 406 12th St., Wellsville, charged with driving 70 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on Route 7.

Halted after he passed three other autos in heavy traffic, Choina said his speedometer was not operating, the patrol said.

Districts To Share

County Board May Hire Vocational Coordinator

LISBON — The Columbiana County Board of Education will employ a vocational program coordinator if districts sharing in the program contribute to part of the salary.

The County Board acted Monday night after hearing Supt. Joe W. Driscoll of Lisbon outline the cooperative program now under way in Lisbon, United, Leetonia, Columbiana, Crestview and East Palestine high schools.

LISBON offers welding, and plans to offer vocational home economics and cooperative office education. United has vocational agriculture and home ec; Leetonia, home ec, office education and cooperative training in the trades; Columbiana, distributive education — retail selling, and Crestview, home ec and occupational work experience. East Palestine is planning to offer courses next year.

Some students in these schools also take advantage of the vocation agriculture courses offered by Salem school system, Driscoll said.

He said there is a need for a vocational coordinator and this could be the first step toward a joint vocational high school. Lisbon Board of Education last week gave tentative approval of the plan providing its share in the $600-$700 range.

None of the districts can legally hire a coordinator, but the county board can and the state will pay $4,500 toward his salary, according to J. M. McBride, superintendent of county schools.

THE BOARD authorized McBride to make arrangements to employ a coordinator whose services will be available to the four local districts — United, Fairfield - Waterford (Crestview), Beaver and Southern; Lisbon, Leetonia and Columbiana villages, East Palestine, and also Wellsville, East Liverpool and Salem if they wish to participate.

McBride announced that Stayner F. Brighton, new executive secretary of the Ohio Education Association, will be guest speaker for the County Education Association's spring banquet at 6:30 p. m. April 18. The event will be held in the cafeteria of United's new high school addition which opened for classes today.

McBride also reported on the procedure recommended by O. E. A. for removal of incompetent teachers, the receipt of a dozen bids on a fringe benefit medical - surgical insurance policy for county school employes, and the results of an investigation into cooperative buying.

Volunteers Needed For Cancer Drive

With the American Cancer Society's fund - raising drive rapidly taking shape, the East Liverpool area Crusade chairman has issued an appeal for "additional urgently - needed volunteers."

Mrs. Lawrence J. Newtz said that while the response from those wishing to serve as volunteers in the fight against cancer has been enthusiastic, "many more workers are needed if an outstanding job is to be done."

She explained that the volunteer "is the lifeblood of the Society's fight against cancer. It is the volunteer who helps save lives now and holds out the promise of helping save many more in the future."

Mrs. Newtz said many jobs need to be done before the Crusade gets under way April 1.

"One of the primary objectives of the volunteers will be to alert every adult to what can be done now about cancer, especially in the six most common sites — the uterus, colon and rectum, breast, oral cavity, lungs and skin.

"Medical knowledge of detection and treatment, if properly applied, could save additional thousands of American lives from these six types of cancer, and positive action could prevent the development of many cancers in these sites. At present rates about one of three will die from the disease. This amounts to the population of one large city being wiped out by a single disease in one year."

Mrs. Newtz asks anyone willing to serve in the Crusade to communicate with her at her home on 710 North St. or to phone 385-1870.

Blast Rocks Ship Aground Off England

LAND'S END, England (AP) —A violent explosion rocked the engine room of the stranded supertanker Torrey Canyon today and halted salvage operations.

A Royal Navy spokesman said one man—believed to be the salvage master of the Dutch tug Utrecht—was badly burned in the blast and died a short time later.

Reports that the tanker, which still has about 80,000 tons of oil aboard, was on fire mobilized a fleet of rescue ships and British navy helicopters. They took off the ship's captain, three crewmen and two salvage officers.

The huge blast blew the roof and the floor of the engine room to bits. Helicopter pilots who said they were able to see through the keel said there was no fire but the ship had suffered severe damage.

Surrounded by its own leaking oil, which now covers 100 square miles of ocean off the southwest tip of England, the 61,263-ton tanker lay crippled and deserted. She is owned by a subsidiary of the Union Oil Co. of California.

The ship's tanks were releasing oil in such quantities that all of southern England's beaches were in danger of being ruined for the summer.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN HORN

Working for CBS and NBC

Lee Mendelson, who produced the high-rated Charlie Brown specials for CBS (he also has a coproduction deal with that network to make a "Peanuts" feature film), is going to be an NBC producer as well.

The Burlingame, Calif., independent, who has a commitment with author John Steinbeck, persuaded the peacock network that it should join with him in an hour color special on the Nobel Prize winner's new book, "America and Americans."

THE AGREEMENT, to result in an autumn program, is another bend, dent or liberalization in NBC News policy of producing its own documentaries.

The organization recently hired Roberto Rossellini to make a film about Sicily. The NBC News man overseeing that project — Vice President Don Meany — also will be in charge of the Steinbeck program, which will attempt to delineate the basic paradoxes of America and Americans.

Henry Fonda, who appeared in the movie made from the novelist's "The Grapes of Wrath," will narrate and appear in the documentary. Filming already is under way.

Mendelson, like Rossellini, is with NBC. Another independent producer working with the net- who does two shows a year. However, he was an NBC News producer before and after he began writing books.

"THERE IS evidence that an 'understanding gap' of serious dimensions exists in this country today. . . . Too many Americans have too little derstanding of what is going on."

Arthur R. Murphy Jr., president of McCall Corp., said that in a Chicago speech, Titled "Communications: Mass Without Meaning" and delivered March 1, the address only now is being digested and appreciated in New York as one of the most significant statements of our time on the essential function of keeping Americans informed.

"It is a generally accepted truth that the reasons for our being in Vietnam are not clearly understood by many Americans," Murphy continued. "'Why go to the moon?' is another question that a large percentage of Americans would have trouble answering.

"IT IS OBVIOUS that people are 'tuned' differently to news and information today than they were before the advent of the electronic media. Information is transmitted in short, quick bursts bombarding the eye and the ear.

"After some years of exposure of radio and television news and to newspaper headlines and news magazine digests, we have become accustomed to skimming the 'top of the news.' . . .

"As we have become obsessed with speed we have also become preoccupied with pictures. Given the complexities is a picture really, as the saying goes, 'worth a thousand words,' or even 500 words? Have we allowed ourselves to become a 'picture and caption' society? . . .

"THE PICTURE MEDIA are not best suited to certain kinds of stories and particularly not to the complex, broad-scale stories that make up the more significant portion of today's information flow. . . .

"By its nature, television is suited best to the coverage of the kind of story the viewer can take in at a glance. This sort of story usually falls in the 'event' category, more emotional than cerebral, more the and understanding of vital insharing of an experience rather than the transmission, reception and understanding of vital information.

"An example of this sort of coverage — in which television is unsurpassed — was President Kennedy's funeral. A presidential inauguration or a football game might be other examples. But the coverage of the budget, or a tariff, or complex international negotiations, or even the Vietnamese war, is a different matter."

Murphy called for a rededication to the content rather than the means of communication: "We must rid ourselves of what the great architect Walter Gropius has described as our 'Gallup poll mentality of quantity over quality.'"

Urges Solidarity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, urging congressional solidarity in support of U.S. troops in South Vietnam, said Monday it was needed because "we have convinced Ho Chi Minh the Congress is divided and we are going to pull out."

Driver Hurt When His Car Rams Into Rig

A Warren driver was hospitalized after his car rammed the side of a tractor - trailer rig on Route 30 at Cannons Mills at 12:55 a. m. today.

The Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the accident involved the car driven by Henry Malone, 35, of Warren and the tractor - trailer operated by William Stallman, 37, of Canton.

Malone drove off the right side of the road and in attempting to get back onto the highway lost control of the car. The vehicle crossed over to the other side and hit the side of the tractor - trailer, officers said.

Malone's 1964 coach was demolished, with only slight damage to the truck. Malone, who was cited for driving left of center, was admitted to City Hospital, where he is in "satisfactory" condition with abrasions of the lower left leg. A passenger in his car, Thomas Malone of Warren, was examined, but had no apparent injuries.

Edward Haupt, 67, of Hanoverton R. D. 1 was cited for speed in excess of road and weather conditions after his car struck a telephone pole along Route 644, a mile east of Route 30 Monday at 8:25 p. m.

Officers said he was traveling west, lost control on a curve, slid left of center and off the highway, hitting the pole. The wires dropped to the road.

At 8:30 p.m., a tractor-trailer rig operated by Paul Foulks, 42, of Lisbon R. D. 3 struck the downed wires, damaging accessories on top of the cab.

Marine Identified

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP)—A Marine fatally shot by a comrade while on sentry duty Friday night, in what Navy investigators have termed an accident, has been identified as Pfc. Edward Crawford Jr., 19, survived by his widow, Maxine, in Dayton, Ohio.

The intensified Communist attacks began Monday at about the same time President Johnson landed in Guam for a top-level review of the Vietnam war. Since then fighting has flared up and down the nation in what looked like a Communist attempt to cast a shadow over the Guam talks.

While ground fighting flared in the South, Navy planes today made a fourth raid on North Vietnam's showpiece steel plant at Thai Nguyen, 35 miles north of Hanoi. The predawn strike followed 65 missions against the North Monday. No U.S. losses were reported.

U.S. Marines were knifing inland just below the demilitarized zone after putting 2,000 men ashore in a surprise landing. Within hours they ran into a furious mortar barrage.

Another American force was engaged today with several hundred Communist troops in the rugged foothills of the central highlands. The Communists reportedly have lost 34 dead in a fight which was still continuing at last report.

Post 4 Appoints 3 As 'Delegates' For Boys' State

Attending from East Liverpool High School under the post's sponsorship will be William Hopper, Dan Dupont and Dale Jones. A fourth delegate will be selected from Beaver Local High School.

Glenn Poling, commander, presided. Emmett Blake reported 250 paperback books have been collected for Veterans Administration Hospitals and will be delivered within the next few days. Ray Cunningham will assist.

The birthday banquet committee said final arrangements have been completed for the event May 15. I. J. Vorndran gave the financial report.

Johnson

Johnson said from all signs available to him Hanoi still adamantly opposes negotiations.

Ky, his voice quavering at times, had made a highly charged plea for united American support, arguing that unity in the United States would bring Hanoi to the peace table.

Newsmen asked Johnson if he thought home-front dissent over Vietnam was the prime obstacle to peace. He replied that disagreements are ever present and an integral part of the American system.

He conceded, however, that it "is irritating and damaging at times to have any deep divisions."

The President concluded by saying: "I don't think Hanoi is going to get much encouragement from thinking she can divide the American people."

"We are leaving feeling hopeful and that we have had a very constructive two days."

He said the conferees had "a very instructive exchange" but that "we have not made any momentous decisions one way or the other."

The President said the U.S. and Vietnamese leaders "faced up to our problems frankly." He added there has been "real progress" since his Honolulu meeting last year with leaders of the Saigon government.

Before the talks, American officials indicated much attention would be given to pacification — building democracy and economic stability in areas wrested from the Communists. But they said word of any new decisions in this area would have to await the end of the conference.

Johnson, asked about this, said the topic did get considerable attention. But he said: "We made no far-reaching decisions that would bring about any revolutionary changes."

The President said one reason for the Guam talks was to promote "as smooth a transition as we could" when Ellsworth Bunker succeeds Henry Cabot Lodge as ambassador in Saigon. The two men flanked him as he spoke.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN HORN

Working for CBS and NBC

Lee Mendelson, who produced the high-rated Charlie Brown specials for CBS (he also has a coproduction deal with that network to make a "Peanuts" feature film), is going to be an NBC producer as well.

The Burlingame, Calif., independent, who has a commitment with author John Steinbeck, persuaded the peacock network that it should join with him in an hour color special on the Nobel Prize winner's new book, "America and Americans."

THE AGREEMENT, to result in an autumn program, is another bend, dent or liberalization in NBC News policy of producing its own documentaries.

The organization recently hired Roberto Rossellini to make a film about Sicily. The NBC News man overseeing that project — Vice President Don Meany — also will be in charge of the Steinbeck program, which will attempt to delineate the basic paradoxes of America and Americans.

Henry Fonda, who appeared in the movie made from the novelist's "The Grapes of Wrath," will narrate and appear in the documentary. Filming already is under way.

Mendelson, like Rossellini, is with NBC. Another independent producer working with the net who does two shows a year. However, he was an NBC News producer before and after he began writing books.

"THERE IS evidence that an 'understanding gap' of serious dimensions exists in this country today. . . . Too many Americans have too little derstanding of what is going on."

Arthur R. Murphy Jr., president of McCall Corp., said that in a Chicago speech, Titled "Communications: Mass Without Meaning" and delivered March 1, the address only now is being digested and appreciated in New York as one of the most significant statements of our time on the essential function of keeping Americans informed.

"It is a generally accepted truth that the reasons for our being in Vietnam are not clearly understood by many Americans," Murphy continued. "'Why go to the moon?' is another question that a large percentage of Americans would have trouble answering.

"IT IS OBVIOUS that people are 'tuned' differently to news and information today than they were before the advent of the electronic media. Information is transmitted in short, quick bursts bombarding the eye and the ear.

"After some years of exposure of radio and television news and to newspaper headlines and news magazine digests, we have become accustomed to skimming the 'top of the news.' . . .

"As we have become obsessed with speed we have also become preoccupied with pictures. Given the complexities is a picture really, as the saying goes, 'worth a thousand words,' or even 500 words? Have we allowed ourselves to become a 'picture and caption' society? . . .

"THE PICTURE MEDIA are not best suited to certain kinds of stories and particularly not to the complex, broad-scale stories that make up the more significant portion of today's information flow. . . .

"By its nature, television is suited best to the coverage of the kind of story the viewer can take in at a glance. This sort of story usually falls in the 'event' category, more emotional than cerebral, more the and understanding of vital insharing of an experience rather than the transmission, reception and understanding of vital information.

"An example of this sort of coverage — in which television is unsurpassed — was President Kennedy's funeral. A presidential inauguration or a football game might be other examples. But the coverage of the budget, or a tariff, or complex international negotiations, or even the Vietnamese war, is a different matter."

Murphy called for a rededication to the content rather than the means of communication: "We must rid ourselves of what the great architect Walter Gropius has described as our 'Gallup poll mentality of quantity over quality.'"

Thieu said on his return from Guam that South Vietnam had invited the North Vietnamese to a peace meeting but that Hanoi has not replied.

Thieu said the United States and South Vietnam agreed at the Guam conference on their "determination to search for a just and permanent peace," but he emphasized that while backing peacemaking efforts, South Vietnam insists on "proper guarantees."

"We have put out a proposal for Hanoi to discuss peace with us and if Hanoi is ready to discuss peace with us, we are ready to meet with them."

Thieu and Ky spoke at an airport news conference before Lodge and Westmoreland returned.

Ky said details of the peace feeler could not be disclosed since Hanoi had not yet responded. The proposal was relayed to Hanoi before the Guam conference "through channels open to us," he said.

In Guam, White House press secretary George Christian declined to comment on Thieu's announcement.

Ky and Thieu hailed the Guam meeting as a reaffirmation of the "spirit of cooperation" between the United States and South Vietnam. Thieu said both parties renewed their pledge "to make all efforts to insure that Hanoi cannot achieve a military victory in South Vietnam."

In a public statement while in Guam, Ky asked Johnson a series of questions which in effect called for an escalation of the war by attacks on Hanoi and on Communist communication lines through Cambodia and Laos.

He explained in Saigon he asked the questions to focus world attention on the continued Communist aggression and said he did not expect an immediate answer from Johnson.

Thieu said the Guam talks concerned primarily problems of pacification and rehabilitation of South Vietnam and strictly military details were not discussed.

Thieu said Johnson expressed "the determination of the American government and American people to continue to support us in our struggle to build a new society for Vietnam."

He pledged that South Vietnam's new constitution "would be promulgated within a few days" and elections would take place within five months for a president and a legislative assembly. The draft constitution was approved by the Constituent Assembly and the military junta on the eve of the Guam talks.

Spokesmen in Communist camps and peace advocates among Washington senators seemed pessimistic over chances of getting the combatants to the negotiating table very soon.

The Communists viewed the Guam conference as the prelude to an escalation of the war and declared any intensification would be met "my the maximum counterpressure."

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said in Moscow that escalation of the war in Vietnam "would be the most dangerous act of recklessness and it will meet with a worthy rebuff of the heroic people of Vietnam and bring about increasing support of their friends."

Department of Agriculture stamps this month for the first time are Central Federal Savings and Loan Association of Wellsville, Union Banking Co. of Columbiana, Citizens Savings Bank of Leetonia, Union Commercial Bank of East Palestine and First National Bank of East Palestine. The latter also is selling at its Negley branch.

Stamp sales have been handled since the program began Dec. 1, by Farmers National Bank, First National Bank of East Liverpool and Citizens Banking Co. of Salineville.

Each bank carries $60,000 worth of stamps each month. County commissioners pay the banks 35 cents for each sale or transaction.

Hall pointed out that his term expires June 30, 1968, and that he will retire at that time. He said it was customary for the board to hire a successor at the first of the year, and for that reason an extra $10,000 had been appropriated in the superintendent's budget.

Fined For Mishap

EAST PALESTINE — Council Monday night approved a 1967 appropriation ordinance calling for an expenditure of $789,860.

The appropriation was submitted by Auditor George Archibald, who worked with the finance committee — Paul Adams, James Lynch and Russell Patton — in its preparation.

In other business, a resolution was approved assuring cooperation with the Columbiana County Regional Planning Commission and the planning commissions of various municipalities and townships.

It was voted to take $100 from the general fund for initial membership in the group.

Safety - Service Director George McGuckin commented on complaints submitted by residents concerning the lack of snow removal in certain parts of the city and pointed out shortages of personnel had hampered the work.

Babies And Allergies

By Allergy Foundation of America

Babies are the most piteous among the millions that find themselves in the clutches of our modern tormenter, the allergy.

One of the infant's first hurdles is the mother's milk, which may not agree with him. Ready or not, from then on the baby is plunged into the maelstrom of this world, faced with making a personal chemical peace with every object in his home and then later the world outside.

—:—

ECZEMA brings an early trial for a good many babies. It is thought to be a sign that there is a lack of toleration for something in the baby's new world, a propensity passed on by parent, grandparent or another member of the family who has preceded him.

The rash usually appears on the face, neck, in the folds of the elbow or behind the knees.

Eczema conditions should have medical attention. The child will not "grow out of it" in the sense that it will disappear and never recur.

From the widest view, it can be beneficial, in that it hints of other allergic adventures to come in the baby's life, perhaps hay fever or asthma, and this warning can bring to the rescue medical treatments which will allow him to escape the fate.

Eczema can disappear by the age of two. Otherwise, it can become chronic, marring the face or body of a youngster and, at the same time, bringing the possibility of creating grave psychological effects.

FOOD sensitivities light the fuse for most allergic babies' wretchedness. Digestive upsets and colic of any duration, breathing difficulties or skin eruptions are the symptoms.

It cannot be emphasized too strongly that babies do not grow out of any of the allergies which may beset them. Self-diagnosis, self-treatment or neglect present the most dangerous possibilities for such conditions.

The knowledge is wide and growing, the allergist's skill is great, the weapons at hand multiply each day. The time to act is when the baby is young. Get help!

Chester Man Obtains 'Excellent' In Exam

Kenny Williams of 931 Plutus Ave., Chester, has passed a waste water treatment plant operator's course which he took at West Virginia University while employed as assistant superintendent in the Chester water department.

Williams said he achieved a rating of "excellent" on the test, jointly conducted by the federal government and several states for sewage plant operators. West Virginia, he said, is the 11th state requiring the examination for licensed operators.

76ers Face Royals

NBA Playoffs Open Tonight At 4 Sites

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The stage is set tonight for the National Basketball Association playoffs, and the spotlight will be on such stars as Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell, Oscar Robertson and Rick Barry.

This looked like the year the Detroit Pistons would make the playoffs for the first time since 1962-63, but the Bulls, in their first NBA season, pulled off a major surprise by beating out the Pistons for the fourth and last playoff spot in the Western Division.

Early in the season, Player-Coach Richie Guerin of the St. Louis Hawks said of Chicago:

"They'll be lucky to win 10 games this season."

But they did win 33 en route to a playoff berth, and if they win three more, Guerin and the Hawks will be through for the year.

The Hawks, second in the West, and Bulls meet tonight in St. Louis in the first game of a best-of-5 series.

Other first-round openers have Eastern Division winning Philadelphia at home against third-place Cincinnati, fourth-place New York at Eastern runner-up Boston and Western winner San Francisco at home against third-place Los Angeles.

The Bulls are led by veteran Guy Rodgers, obtained in a trade with San Francisco, who set an NBA assist record of 908 this season. St. Louis' strong point is offensive rebounding. This chore falls mainly to Zelmo Beatty, Bill Bridges and rookie Lou Hudson, Bridges and Beatty missed the last two regular season games because of injuries, but should be ready.

In the other Western games, San Francisco pits the shooting of Barry, the highest scoring forward in NBA history with 2,775 points this season, and the rebounding of Thurmond against the renowned clutch play of the Lakers' Jerry West and Elgin Baylor. However, West is hobbled by an ankle injury.

Philadelphia beat Cincinnati eight times in nine games during the season, and the Celtics have whipped New York 19 straight times dating back to March 17, 1965.

Cincinnati will have to stop Hal Greer's outside shooting, the 76ers' strong rebounding and of course Chamberlain, who has the added incentive of never having played on a world championship team.

New York is in real trouble against Boston. Not only are the Knickerbockers without Dick Barnett and Dave Stallworth, sidelined for the season earlier in the year, but they might not have Willis Reed for the opener. He has a strained back.

Without Reed, who leads New York in scoring and rebounding, the Knicks will have to get good outside shooting and above par performances from their remaining players to have any kind of a chance against Russell, Sam Jones, Bailey Howell, John Havlicek and the rest of the Celtics.

Burdette Makes Impressive Start

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 40-year-old pitcher, now in his 20th year of professional baseball, made his first exhibition game appearance Monday and beat out a bunt single.

Burdette's right arm appeared to be just as strong as his legs as he worked two innings and allowed only an infield hit in California's 6-2 victory over Cleveland at Palm Springs, Calif.

In other games, rookie Mike Epstein's three-run homer gave Baltimore a 4-2 victory over Cincinnati, San Francisco outslugged the Chicago Cubs 9-6, St. Louis topped Philadelphia 4-2, Boston nipped Pittsburgh 4-3, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Mets 7-4, the New York Yankees edged Los Angeles 7-6 and Detroit downed Atlanta 5-4.

The veteran right-hander, who wanted the reported $46,500 he received last season with Minnesota, came to terms for an estimated $42,500.

Marcelino Lopez worked the first five innings for California, which ended a five-game losing streak. Jim Fregosi, Rick Reichardt and Jose Cardenal each collected a single and double for the Angels.

Epstein's homer came off Billy McCool in the fourth inning at Tampa, Fla., and tagged McCool, who is hoping to become a starting pitcher, with his third exhibition loss. Frank Robinson tripled and singled for Baltimore.

Willie Mays hit his first exhibition homer and extended his hitting streak through 10 games in San Francisco's victory over the Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Mike Shannon belted a two-run homer and Orlando Cepeda got two doubles and a single in leading St. Louis past Philadelphia at St. Petersburg, Fla., for the Cardinals' fourth straight victory.

Tony Horton, fighting George Scott for Boston's first base job, homered, doubled and singled, in the Red Sox' defeat of Pittsburgh at Winter Haven, Fla. Don Demeter also contributed a two-run double to the Boston attack.

The White Sox got only one hit in the first five innings off Met rookie pitcher Bill Denehy but got five unearned runs in winning at Homestead, Fla. Tommie Agee hit an inside-the-park homer for Chicago.

Veteran Whitey Ford pitched the first five innings, allowing one run on six scattered hits and Joe Pepitone collected three hits and two RBIs in the Yankees' triumph at Vero Beach, Fla. Dick Stuart singled twice and blasted a two-run homer for Los Angeles.

Atlanta got home runs from John Hoffman and Mack Jones but committed five errors in losing to Detroit at West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Tigers won it in the ninth. With two out, Cecil Upshaw struck out Mickey Stanley, who reached first when the third strike got past rookie catcher Hoffman. Stanley moved to third on Dave Campbell's single and scored on Willie Horton's single.

Willie Mays Shrugs Off Suggestion Of HR Mark

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Willie Mays shrugs off the suggestion that he may be the one to break Babe Ruth's lifetime record of 714 home runs.

"I don't even want to talk about home runs," the San Francisco Giants' centerfielder said today. He hit his first homer of the spring Monday as the Giants beat the Chicago Cubs 9-6.

To the suggestion he might be more relaxed this spring after reaching goals expected of him in the homer department last season, Mays answered "I'm just doing the same things getting ready this spring as I usually do. At least I think I am.

That was the one which topped the National League record established by the late Mel Ott of the New York Giants.

After nine trying days during which cameras trained on his every swing and newsmen crowded Candlestick Park's pressbox, Mays drove a pitch by the Dodgers' Claude Osteen out of the premises.

On Aug. 16, he hit No. 534 which tied him with Jimmy Foxx as the greatest right-handed home run hitter of all time. This time the deadlock lasted only a day as he hit No. 535 off the Cardinals' Ray Washburn.

Reaching age 36 on May 6, Mays faces a tremendous task to reach the Ruth mark, yet no one watching him this spring would term it impossible.

He hit safely in the first six exhibition games, was given a vacation the next day and came right back with hits in the next pair, two for extra bases. So it goes with the star who broke in with the Giants in 1951 as the Say Hey Kid and now rates as the club's elder statesman, the captain of the team, with a $125,000 annual salary.

WVU Signs Dick Symons, Toronto Star

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) —Dick Symons of Toronto, a member of The All-Ohio Class AA high school basketball team, will attend West Virginia University, it was announced Monday night.

Symons, a 6-foot-5, 220-pounder, signed a grant in aid to attend WVU, at Morgantown, W. Va. Symons averaged 25.6 points per game this season and said he had narrowed his choice to West Virginia, Ohio State and Georgia Tech.

Stanford Aide Named Portland Cage Coach

He succeeds Al Negratti who became athletic director March 8 after 10 years as basketball coach.

Rick Barry Is New Point King Of NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association has a new scoring king — but deposed ruler Wilt Chamberlain is still sitting pretty.

Rick Barry of San Francisco became the highest-scoring forward in NBA history and ended Chamberlain's seven-year reign by tossing in 2,775 points, according to final official statistics for the 1966-67 season released by the league office today.

But, while Barry averaged 35.6 points a game in 78 games for a comfortable margin over runner-up Oscar Robertson and third-finisher Chamberlain, Philadelphia's 7-foot-1 pivotman established five all-time records in leading the 76ers to their second straight Eastern Division title.

Chamberlain led the league in field goal percentage with a .683 mark, smashing his own 1965-66 record of .540. He set a record of 630 assists by a center in finishing as the No. 3 playmaker behind Chicago's Guy Rodgers, who broke the all-time record with 908, and Cincinnati's Robertson.

Wilt also connected on 35 successive shots from the floor in a four-game stretch, topping his previous record string by four, and extended his mark for most career points to 23,442 in eight seasons and his consecutive-game streak without disqualification on personal fouls to 624. Chamberlain has never fouled out of an NBA game.

Robertson scored 2,412 points, for a 30.5 average, and Chamberlain had 1,956, a per-game mark of 24.1. Jerry West and Elgin Baylor, Los Angeles' 1-2 offensive punch, finished fourth and fifth, respectively, in the scoring derby.

Hal Greer of Philadelphia, John Havlicek of Boston, Willis Reed of New York, Bailey Howell of Boston and rookie Dave Bing of Detroit completed the top 10, in that order.

The Vinson Massif, 16,860 feet, is the highest point in the Sentinel Range in West Antarctica. Mt. Tyree, 16,290, is the second highest peak.

Folley To Challenge Clay In Garden Bout Wednesday

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Zora Folley's manager says the heavyweight challenger's greatest moment in the ring so far has been his knockout of Britain's Henry Cooper in 1961.

"Zora is ready now and in the same mental and physical condition for Cassius Clay as he was for Cooper," said Bill Swift, Folley's manager, today.

"Cooper had beaten Zora in 10 rounds in 1958," said Swift. "When they met again in December of 1961 in London, Zora weighed 195 pounds and was sharp as a razor. He knocked out Cooper in the second round. He was great that night. He can beat Clay."

Swift, Folley and trainer Johnny Hart are among the very few in town who believe the 34-year-old, No. 1 contender has a chance against the undefeated Clay at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. Folley said he will weigh between 200 and 205.

Folley, a mild, stolid, modest man, almost has to be prodded to comment on the fight. He now says, "I will beat him by decision or knockout. I will be the next champion Wednesday night."

He says it as if making a memorized speech.

A pro 13½ years and unbeaten in his last 12 fights, Folley has a 74-7-4 won-lost-draw record including 40 knockout victories. He has been stopped five times.

In boxing circles they whisper that "Folley blows the big ones. He doesn't have the heart. He'll freeze against Clay."

"I've heard that talk," he said. "But I know I won't freeze. "He's not a deadly puncher. He's not a Joe Louis. I've been in with some deadly punchers — Sonny Liston and Johnny Summerlin (both knocked Folley out) a few years back. They could really punch.

"But he's not a deadly puncher. I think I'm a deadlier puncher than he is. And I think I can punch just as fast as he does. Remember, I've scored 40 knockouts. I must be able to punch."

Clay has a 28-0 record, including 22 knockouts.

Ernie Terrell went 15 rounds with Clay when the champion retained his title on a decision at Houston last Feb. 6. George Chuvalo also went the 15 round distance with Clay on March 29, 1966, and German Karl Mildenberger lasted 12 rounds until he was stopped on cuts last Sept. 10.

Clay, half serious and half joking, said Monday after his last workout that Folley might go 15 rounds.

"I'm not a knockout fighter — I can't punch," said Clay. "All I want to do is to box and dance, be artistic and show class. That way the advertisers can get a chance to show their commercials on television."

Then, in answer to questions, he said ominously (for Folley) that his condition, mental attitude and weight would be about the same as it was for his second fight with Sonny Liston.

He weighed 206 pounds on May 25, 1965 when he knocked out Liston in the first round with one controversial punch at Lewiston, Me.

Between Houston And UCLA

Some Feel NCAA Crown Will Be Decided Friday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA Coach John Wooden says the Bruins, after surviving a near-shock from University of the Pacific, won't be complacent in Friday's clash with Houston in the NCAA basketball semifinals at Louisville, Ky.

"We may have gone to Louisville with a complacent attitude if Pacific wouldn't have done so well against us," Wooden said.

"I'm tickled that we survived such a tough outing. Pacific defensed us well and I'm sure we'll face more of the same brute force next weekend."

UCLA beat Pacific 80-64 in the Western Regional finals at Corvallis, Ore., last Saturday. But the Bruins trailed in rebounds, 50-35.

Some observes feel the NCAA champion will emerge Friday night, not Saturday when UCLA or Houston plays the winner of the Dayton-North Carolina semifinal.

"I sincerely believe that the championship will be decided Friday night," declared the coach whose team beat Houston 87-78 in February and lost to UCLA 96-67 in December.

Dee said he sees Houston as "the one team" that could beat the Bruins.

One of Houston's chief assets is physical strength, and its strongest player, 6-foot-8, 240-pound Elvin Hayes, presents a strong threat to the Bruins' 7-1 center, Lew Alcindor.

If Hayes can "neutralize" Alcindor, Dees said, "it will be a helluva ball game. But, to me, the word 'neutralize' means that Hayes will have to rebound with Alcindor a little and perhaps score 20 while Alcindor gets 30."

Stan Mikita NHL's Center Of Attraction

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago's Bobby Hull is taking his third 50-goal season in stride today but teammate Stan Mikita is the National Hockey League's center of attraction.

While Hull drilled goals No. 50 and 51 last weekend, Mikita picked up a goal and two assists, boosting his league-leading point total to 92 — a single-season record for a center.

Mikita cracked the 91-point mark set by Montreal center Jean Beliveau in 1958-59 and tied his own NHL assist record of 59, which he established two years ago. The Czechoslovakian-born pivotman has six games left to better the all-time point record of 97 set by Hull last season.

Hull scored his 51st goal Sunday night against Montreal, giving him a total of 77 points in 63 starts — good for second place in the individual scoring race.

Detroit's Norm Ullman is third, another 16 points behind, according to official NHL figures released today. Gordie Howe of the Red Wings is in fourth place, one point back of Ullman, and Chicago's Kenny Wharram is fifth with 59 points.

Completing the top ten — with two weeks remaining in the season — are Bobby Rousseau of Montreal and Phil Goyette of New York, with 57 points apiece; Chicago's Phil Esposito, with 55; Doug Mohns of the Hawks, 54, and Detroit's Alex Delvecchio, 50.

Roland NFL's 1966 Punt Return Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Johnny Roland of St. Louis was the National Football League's punt return champion for 1966, according to official league statistics released today.

Oak Glen Lists 2 New Grid Foes On '67 Schedule

Two new opponents were added to the 1967 Oak Glen High School football schedule released today by Principal Russell Slack.

East Liverpool and Johnstown Bishop McCort were dropped from last year's schedule while Wheeling Central and Allegheny High School of Cumberland, Md. have been added. East Liverpool and Oak Glen split in two meetings the past two seasons.

Wheeling Central has been a major power in Catholic High School circles in West Virginia and the Cumberland school is one of the leading football teams in Maryland.

Oak Glen will meet Wheeling at home Oct. 6 and play at Cumberland Oct. 27.

Season tickets will go on sale late in May. Past season ticket holders will have first preference. The price for an adult ticket will be $7. Tickets for individual games will be $1.25.

Romano, Stanky Feud Continues

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — One of baseball's newest and more scintillating feuds has only one more day to run and that's next Saturday when the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals meet for the second and last time this spring.

Of course, if both teams win pennants, the feud could continue next fall between Manager Eddie Stanky of the Chicago White Sox and catcher John Romano of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The White Sox swapped Romano to the Cardinals for rookie outfielder Walter (No Neck) Williams.

When the two clubs met in an exhibition at St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday, Romano inquired of his former teammates "How are things in Stalag 17," in reference to a German prisoner camp in World War II.

"Stalag 17 huh?" barked Stanky. "If he was referring to spring training last year, I wonder if he forgot the four complete off days I gave him?

"But if it was during the season, maybe he was thinking about the $100 I fined him for breaking training in Minneapolis."

Stanky admitted he has levied fines before but never disclosed any names, "however, this was different. The guy irritates me," said Stanky.

In the sixth inning of the game when Tommie Agee stole third on Romano, Stanky hollered, "You can't talk your way out of that, John. Call a press conference now."

Romano then told reporters, "Listen, I like the man off the field. I just couldn't play for him, that's all. I couldn't hit to the opposite field and I couldn't run. But I like to watch his clubs play his game."

When informed of Romano's statements, Stanky said, "He can't say anything else after today, can he?"

Hunt Was Disturbed At Time Of LA Trade

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, thought he'd have a little fun when he telephoned Ron Hunt to welcome him to the Dodgers.

Today, Hunt remembers neither Bavasi's question nor his answer. In fact, there's nothing much he remembers about last Nov. 29, the day the New York Mets sent him and Jim Hickman to Los Angeles for Tommy Davis and Derrell Griffith.

"I guess you could say I was pretty shook up about being traded," Hunt said while walking through a light rain toward the Dodger clubhouse. "I don't remember what I said or what anyone said to me. I recall telling Walter Alston that I'd give the Dodgers my best, but that's all.

"The phone started ringing, and everyone was asking me questions. I had to get out of there so I went hunting for three days. I was okay after that. I just needed time for it to sink in."

"Everything's okay now. I went to Los Angeles for four days before spring training, and I met some of the players. I just didn't want to start all over again after I spent four years with the Mets."

Hunt, 26, is the only Met ever to be selected to start in an All-Star Game. That was in 1964, his second season in the majors, when he batted .303.

The next year, however, he played in only 57 games because of a finger injury and then a shoulder separation. He bounced back brilliantly last year, hitting .288 as the Mets emerged from the National League cellar for the first time.

Despite the fact that Hunt was the most popular player among the Mets' zany fans, he was mentioned in trade rumors for the past three years. When the rumors turned into reality, he was shook up not so much at leaving the team but at deserting the fans.

"I don't feel anything toward the ball club," he explained. "When we play them, I'll want to beat them."

Falcons Add Another Soccer-Style Kicker

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons have added another placekicker to the squad they'll take to training camp this summer.

NBA Playoffs Open Tonight At 4 Sites

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The stage is set tonight for the National Basketball Association playoffs, and the spotlight will be on such stars as Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell, Oscar Robertson and Rick Barry.

But watch out for those guys in the wings.

They're the Chicago Bulls, and they would like nothing better than to steal the show hardly anyone thought they would be in.

This looked like the year the Detroit Pistons would make the playoffs for the first time since 1962-63, but the Bulls, in their first NBA season, pulled off a major surprise by beating out the Pistons for the fourth and last playoff spot in the Western Division.

Early in the season, Player-Coach Richie Guerin of the St. Louis Hawks said of Chicago:

"They'll be lucky to win 10 games this season."

But they did win 33 en route to a playoff berth, and if they win three more, Guerin and the Hawks will be through for the year.

The Hawks, second in the West, and Bulls meet tonight in St. Louis in the first game of a best-of-5 series.

Other first-round openers have Eastern Division winning Philadelphia at home against third-place Cincinnati, fourth-place New York at Eastern runner-up Boston and Western winner San Francisco at home against third-place Los Angeles.

The Bulls are led by veteran Guy Rodgers, obtained in a trade with San Francisco, who set an NBA assist record of 908 this season. St. Louis' strong point is offensive rebounding. This chore falls mainly to Zelmo Beatty, Bill Bridges and rookie Lou Hudson, Bridges and Beatty missed the last two regular season games because of injuries, but should be ready.

In the other Western games, San Francisco pits the shooting of Barry, the highest scoring forward in NBA history with 2,775 points this season, and the rebounding of Thurmond against the renowned clutch play of the Lakers' Jerry West and Elgin Baylor. However, West is hobbled by an ankle injury.

Philadelphia beat Cincinnati eight times in nine games during the season, and the Celtics have whipped New York 19 straight times dating back to March 17, 1965.

Cincinnati will have to stop Hal Greer's outside shooting, the 76ers' strong rebounding and of course Chamberlain, who has the added incentive of never having played on a world championship team.

New York is in real trouble against Boston. Not only are the Knickerbockers without Dick Barnett and Dave Stallworth, sidelined for the season earlier in the year, but they might not have Willis Reed for the opener. He has a strained back.

Without Reed, who leads New York in scoring and rebounding, the Knicks will have to get good outside shooting and above par performances from their remaining players to have any kind of a chance against Russell, Sam Jones, Bailey Howell, John Havlicek and the rest of the Celtics.

Burdette Makes Impressive Start

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 40-year-old pitcher, now in his 20th year of professional baseball, made his first exhibition game appearance Monday and beat out a bunt single.

Burdette's right arm appeared to be just as strong as his legs as he worked two innings and allowed only an infield hit in California's 6-2 victory over Cleveland at Palm Springs, Calif.

In other games, rookie Mike Epstein's three-run homer gave Baltimore a 4-2 victory over Cincinnati, San Francisco outslugged the Chicago Cubs 9-6, St. Louis topped Philadelphia 4-2, Boston nipped Pittsburgh 4-3, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Mets 7-4, the New York Yankees edged Los Angeles 7-6 and Detroit downed Atlanta 5-4.

The veteran right-hander, who wanted the reported $46,500 he received last season with Minnesota, came to terms for an estimated $42,500.

Marcelino Lopez worked the first five innings for California, which ended a five-game losing streak. Jim Fregosi, Rick Reichardt and Jose Cardenal each collected a single and double for the Angels.

Epstein's homer came off Billy McCool in the fourth inning at Tampa, Fla., and tagged McCool, who is hoping to become a starting pitcher, with his third exhibition loss. Frank Robinson tripled and singled for Baltimore.

Willie Mays hit his first exhibition homer and extended his hitting streak through 10 games in San Francisco's victory over the Cubs at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Folley To Challenge Clay In Garden Bout Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Zora Folley's manager says the heavyweight challenger's greatest moment in the ring so far has been his knockout of Britain's Henry Cooper in 1961.

"Zora is ready now and in the same mental and physical condition for Cassius Clay as he was for Cooper," said Bill Swift, Folley's manager, today.

"Cooper had beaten Zora in 10 rounds in 1958," said Swift. "When they met again in December of 1961 in London, Zora weighed 195 pounds and was sharp as a razor. He knocked out Cooper in the second round. He was great that night. He can beat Clay."

Swift, Folley and trainer Johnny Hart are among the very few in town who believe the 34-year-old, No. 1 contender has a chance against the undefeated Clay at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. Folley said he will weigh between 200 and 205.

Folley, a mild, stolid, modest man, almost has to be prodded to comment on the fight. He now says, "I will beat him by decision or knockout. I will be the next champion Wednesday night."

He says it as if making a memorized speech.

A pro 13½ years and unbeaten in his last 12 fights, Folley has a 74-7-4 won-lost-draw record including 40 knockout victories. He has been stopped five times.

In boxing circles they whisper that "Folley blows the big ones. He doesn't have the heart. He'll freeze against Clay."

"I've heard that talk," he said. "But I know I won't freeze. "He's not a deadly puncher. He's not a Joe Louis. I've been in with some deadly punchers — Sonny Liston and Johnny Summerlin (both knocked Folley out) a few years back. They could really punch.

"But he's not a deadly puncher. I think I'm a deadlier puncher than he is. And I think I can punch just as fast as he does. Remember, I've scored 40 knockouts. I must be able to punch."

Clay has a 28-0 record, including 22 knockouts.

Ernie Terrell went 15 rounds with Clay when the champion retained his title on a decision at Houston last Feb. 6. George Chuvalo also went the 15 round distance with Clay on March 29, 1966, and German Karl Mildenberger lasted 12 rounds until he was stopped on cuts last Sept. 10.

Clay, half serious and half joking, said Monday after his last workout that Folley might go 15 rounds.

"I'm not a knockout fighter — I can't punch," said Clay. "All I want to do is to box and dance, be artistic and show class. That way the advertisers can get a chance to show their commercials on television."

Then, in answer to questions, he said ominously (for Folley) that his condition, mental attitude and weight would be about the same as it was for his second fight with Sonny Liston.

He weighed 206 pounds on May 25, 1965 when he knocked out Liston in the first round with one controversial punch at Lewiston, Me.

Between Houston And UCLA

Some Feel NCAA Crown Will Be Decided Friday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA Coach John Wooden says the Bruins, after surviving a near-shock from University of the Pacific, won't be complacent in Friday's clash with Houston in the NCAA basketball semifinals at Louisville, Ky.

"We may have gone to Louisville with a complacent attitude if Pacific wouldn't have done so well against us," Wooden said.

"I'm tickled that we survived such a tough outing. Pacific defensed us well and I'm sure we'll face more of the same brute force next weekend."

UCLA beat Pacific 80-64 in the Western Regional finals at Corvallis, Ore., last Saturday. But the Bruins trailed in rebounds, 50-35.

Some observes feel the NCAA champion will emerge Friday night, not Saturday when UCLA or Houston plays the winner of the Dayton-North Carolina semifinal.

"I sincerely believe that the championship will be decided Friday night," declared the coach whose team beat Houston 87-78 in February and lost to UCLA 96-67 in December.

Dee said he sees Houston as "the one team" that could beat the Bruins.

One of Houston's chief assets is physical strength, and its strongest player, 6-foot-8, 240-pound Elvin Hayes, presents a strong threat to the Bruins' 7-1 center, Lew Alcindor.

If Hayes can "neutralize" Alcindor, Dees said, "it will be a helluva ball game. But, to me, the word 'neutralize' means that Hayes will have to rebound with Alcindor a little and perhaps score 20 while Alcindor gets 30."

Stan Mikita NHL's Center Of Attraction

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago's Bobby Hull is taking his third 50-goal season in stride today but teammate Stan Mikita is the National Hockey League's center of attraction.

While Hull drilled goals No. 50 and 51 last weekend, Mikita picked up a goal and two assists, boosting his league-leading point total to 92 — a single-season record for a center.

Mikita cracked the 91-point mark set by Montreal center Jean Beliveau in 1958-59 and tied his own NHL assist record of 59, which he established two years ago. The Czechoslovakian-born pivotman has six games left to better the all-time point record of 97 set by Hull last season.

Hull scored his 51st goal Sunday night against Montreal, giving him a total of 77 points in 63 starts — good for second place in the individual scoring race.

Detroit's Norm Ullman is third, another 16 points behind, according to official NHL figures released today. Gordie Howe of the Red Wings is in fourth place, one point back of Ullman, and Chicago's Kenny Wharram is fifth with 59 points.

Completing the top ten — with two weeks remaining in the season — are Bobby Rousseau of Montreal and Phil Goyette of New York, with 57 points apiece; Chicago's Phil Esposito, with 55; Doug Mohns of the Hawks, 54, and Detroit's Alex Delvecchio, 50.

Roland NFL's 1966 Punt Return Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Johnny Roland of St. Louis was the National Football League's punt return champion for 1966, according to official league statistics released today.

Oak Glen Lists 2 New Grid Foes On '67 Schedule

Two new opponents were added to the 1967 Oak Glen High School football schedule released today by Principal Russell Slack.

East Liverpool and Johnstown Bishop McCort were dropped from last year's schedule while Wheeling Central and Allegheny High School of Cumberland, Md. have been added. East Liverpool and Oak Glen split in two meetings the past two seasons.

Wheeling Central has been a major power in Catholic High School circles in West Virginia and the Cumberland school is one of the leading football teams in Maryland.

Oak Glen will meet Wheeling at home Oct. 6 and play at Cumberland Oct. 27.

Season tickets will go on sale late in May. Past season ticket holders will have first preference. The price for an adult ticket will be $7. Tickets for individual games will be $1.25.

The 1967 schedule follows:

Aug.	31	Madonna, home
Sept.	8	Wellsville, away
Sept.	15	Wellsburg, away
Sept.	22	Follansbee, home
Sept.	29	Triadelphia, away
Oct.	6	Wheeling Central, home
Oct.	13	Philip Barbour, home
Oct.	20	Beaver Local, home
Oct.	27	Allegheny, away
Nov.	3	Weirton, home

Romano, Stanky Feud Continues

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — One of baseball's newest and more scintillating feuds has only one more day to run and that's next Saturday when the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Cardinals meet for the second and last time this spring.

Of course, if both teams win pennants, the feud could continue next fall between Manager Eddie Stanky of the Chicago White Sox and catcher John Romano of the St. Louis Cardinals.

When the two clubs met in an exhibition at St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday, Romano inquired of his former teammates "How are things in Stalag 17," in reference to a German prisoner camp in World War II.

"Stalag 17 huh?" barked Stanky. "If he was referring to spring training last year, I wonder if he forgot the four complete off days I gave him?

"But if it was during the season, maybe he was thinking about the $100 I fined him for breaking training in Minneapolis."

Stanky admitted he has levied fines before but never disclosed any names, "however, this was different. The guy irritates me," said Stanky.

In the sixth inning of the game when Tommie Agee stole third on Romano, Stanky hollered, "You can't talk your way out of that, John. Call a press conference now."

The remark was in reference to a press conference Romano called last year to air his differences with Stanky.

Later in the game when Romano took a called third strike, Stanky hollered, "Just keep talking John."

Romano then told reporters, "Listen, I like the man off the field. I just couldn't play for him, that's all. I couldn't hit to the opposite field and I couldn't run. But I like to watch his clubs play his game."

When informed of Romano's statements, Stanky said, "He can't say anything else after today, can he?"

Hunt Was Disturbed At Time Of LA Trade

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, thought he'd have a little fun when he telephoned Ron Hunt to welcome him to the Dodgers.

Today, Hunt remembers neither Bavasi's question nor his answer. In fact, there's nothing much he remembers about last Nov. 29, the day the New York Mets sent him and Jim Hickman to Los Angeles for Tommy Davis and Derrell Griffith.

"I guess you could say I was pretty shook up about being traded," Hunt said while walking through a light rain toward the Dodger clubhouse. "I don't remember what I said or what anyone said to me. I recall telling Walter Alston that I'd give the Dodgers my best, but that's all.

"The phone started ringing, and everyone was asking me questions. I had to get out of there so I went hunting for three days. I was okay after that. I just needed time for it to sink in."

"Everything's okay now. I went to Los Angeles for four days before spring training, and I met some of the players. I just didn't want to start all over again after I spent four years with the Mets."

Hunt, 26, is the only Met ever to be selected to start in an All-Star Game. That was in 1964, his second season in the majors, when he batted .303.

The next year, however, he played in only 57 games because of a finger injury and then a shoulder separation. He bounced back brilliantly last year, hitting .288 as the Mets emerged from the National League cellar for the first time.

Despite the fact that Hunt was the most popular player among the Mets' zany fans, he was mentioned in trade rumors for the past three years. When the rumors turned into reality, he was shook up not so much at leaving the team but at deserting the fans.

"I don't feel anything toward the ball club," he explained. "When we play them, I'll want to beat them."

Falcons Add Another Soccer-Style Kicker

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons have added another placekicker to the squad they'll take to training camp this summer.

Playoffs Wednesday

The playoffs in the Blue and White League will be held Wednesday night at 6:30 and not tonight as previously announced. A championship and consolation game will be played at Westgate gym.

Man, 23, Cited In Pastor Death Ruled As Sane

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 23-year-old man charged in the bludgeon death of a prominent theologian has been ruled sane after mental examination at Lima State Hospital.

The finding could open the way for a trial on a first-degree murder charge against William R. Minor of Van Lear, Ky., in the slaving last Oct. 17 of Dr. Robert W. Spike.

Minor was sent to the hospital after he pleaded innocent Jan. 12 in common pleas court.

Prosecutor G. Howard Johnson said the next step might be a sanity hearing. A person adjudged sane after a hospital examination still can ask for a court hearing on his sanity.

Man, 23, Cited In Pastor Death Ruled As Sane

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 23-year-old man charged in the bludgeon death of a prominent theologian has been ruled sane after mental examination at Lima State Hospital.

The finding could open the way for a trial on a first-degree murder charge against William R. Minor of Van Lear, Ky., in the slaving last Oct. 17 of Dr. Robert W. Spike.

Minor was sent to the hospital after he pleaded innocent Jan. 12 in common pleas court.

Prosecutor G. Howard Johnson said the next step might be a sanity hearing. A person adjudged sane after a hospital examination still can ask for a court hearing on his sanity.

A Junior Editors Quiz About CONNECTICUT

QUESTION: What does Connecticut mean and where does the Connecticut River rise?

ANSWER: In the remote, northern tip of New Hampshire, lies a little pond called Fourth Connecticut Lake. A little stream splashes out of it to join three other lakes. It then meanders south as the widening and majestic Connecticut River, which finally empties into Long Island Sound 407 miles from its source. The river flows through valleys where footprints of extinct dinosaurs have been found in the rocks (left), past beautiful farms whose rich soil was once pushed down by the glaciers, along with the rocks which the pioneers piled into stone walls. The river winds, too, past prosperous cities. Since the later 1800's, Connecticut has become an exceedingly important manufacturing state. It has a proud history. It is often called the Constitution State because some of its laws served as models to the framers of the U.S. Constitution. Sea water floods up the entrance of the river; this, with its length, gave the river, and consequently the state, the Indian name of Connecticut, which means on the long tidal river.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

On this date in 1621, the Pilgrim colony at Plymouth, Mass., made the first treaty ever negotiated with the Indians. The pact called for mutual aid in case of an attack.

On this date:

In 1617, Pocahantas, then 22, died in England as she was about to sail back to America.

In 1891, the marriage of a Hatfield to a McCoy ended the legendary feud between the two Kentucky families.

In 1941, the Luftwaffe bombed Plymouth, England.

In 1956, the Prairie State, the last of President Theodore Roosevelt's Great White Fleet, sailed down New York's East River to be junked.

Ten years ago — An American Military Air Transprt plane vanished over the Pacific about 250 miles from Tokyo. All the 67 persons aboard were presumed dead.

Five years ago — Negotiations on a treaty to ban nuclear weapons tests were formally resumed in Geneva by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.
